GERMANS DESPERATELY RESISTING DETERMINED ADVANCE OF ALLIES

French and British Are Unable to Make Headway Against Victorious Sorties

Sacrificing Thousands of Lives to Get Siege Guns Into Efficient Position

Allies However Have Made Some Advances on the Left Where Their Maneuvers Have Been Successful to a Point Where Encouragement is Lent To the General Strategy of the Campaign

A LONG HARD SIEGE NOW SEEMS TO BE PROBABLE

Left Wing of French and English Armies is Now In Position Between Rivers Oise and Somme Which Was Traversed By the Germans In Their March Upon Paris, Which Resulted In No Definite Outcome and a Final Retreat From the Objective Point From Which They Are Now Recuperating.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Paris, Sept. 25.—According to information reaching the French capital this morning, the Germans are continuing their desperate resistance against the advance of the allies in the north. This advance was first upon Roye, 26 miles to the east of Amiens, and then upon Peronne, 20 miles north of Roye.

It was only by a continuous raking artillery fire and hard fighting that the French and British troops were able to continue their advance against the vigorous attacks of the enemy. The left wing of the allies now occupies positions between the rive Oise and the river Somme which were traversed by the Germans during their advance in the direction of Paris.

From this fact it is figured here by military observers the Germans will be obliged to concentrate a great force in order to protect their right wing, the outflanking of which Paris believes, would mean a decisive victory for the allies.

In this fighting, which is in large measure from improvised forts the allies have advanced not only on the left, where their maneuvers apparently were successful but also at other points which were strongly fortified, such as Berry-Au-Bac, in the direction of Craonne.

Judging from the reports coming to Paris the Germans appear to be sacrificing masses of men in the hope of gaining a quick advantage.

So strong are some of the positions on each side, that Paris believes a long and steady siege at some points is now probable. The allies appear to be prepared for this as well as for any other developments.

FRENCH OFFICIAL STATEMENT

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Paris, Sept. 25.—The following official communication was given out in Paris this afternoon:

"First—On our left wing there has begun a general action of great violence between those detachments of our forces that are operating between the river Somme and the river Orse, and the army corps which the enemy has grouped in the region around Tergnier and St. Quentin.

These army corps have come, some from the center of the enemy's line, and others from Lorraine and the Vosges. These last named corps were transported by rail to Cambrai, by way of Liege and Valenciennes. To the north of the river Aisne, as far as Berry au Bac, there has been no change of importance.

"Second—On the center we have made progress to the east of Reims in the direction of Berry and Moronvilliers.

"Third—On our right wing, Lorraine and the Vosges, we have repulsed attacks of minor importance on Nomeny. To the east of Luneville the enemy has made some demonstrations along the lines of the river Vegouse and the river Blette."

French Ambassador Gives List Of Alleged German Atrocities Which He Calls Systematic

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Sept. 25.—The French ambassador, Jules J. Jusserand, made public today the summary of ten documents drawn up by various officials accusing the German soldiery of a systematic campaign of atrocities. The documents, which were placed in the hands of Acting Secretary Lansing of the state department by the ambassador, were also delivered to all signatories of the Hague convention.

With the documents a letter was delivered which explained that the French government did not take the step with the view of demanding any action on the part of the United States, but merely to report to this country as a signatory of the Hague treaty, evidence of how the treaty was being carried out.

The statement made public by the French ambassador is in part as follows:

"By order of the government of the French republic, a series of official reports as to the way in which the present war is being carried on in the French territory by German troops have been communicated to the powers who signed the Hague convention, the United States being one of them.

"These documents, ten in number, show that the instructions and assassinations which have taken place, have been systematic and performed in accordance with orders from the officers and not as the result of an accidental lack of discipline.

"The facts show, among other things, that wounded soldiers have been finished in large numbers by shot fired right against the face of the wounded; that Pont-a-Mousson, an open and undefended town, was bombarded, the hospital which is an historical building, having especially suffered; a number of villages, among them Parux and Ieffville, have been methodically destroyed, house by house, soldiers being, it seems, provided with implements enabling them to perform that kind of work with a minimum of trouble; nurses bearing conspicuously the badge of the Red Cross, have been assassinated; numerous inhabitants have been put to death without pretext or provocation, among whom, at Badonviller, the wife of the mayor, in some cases, notably, Billy, on Aug. 10, the German troops, when they marched out of the place to charge the French troops, made the women and children walk in front of them."

Wilson Deprecates Any Talk Of Second Term by Democrats Of New Jersey, His Home State

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Sept. 25.—At the direction of President Wilson, Secretary Tumulty today wrote a letter to New Jersey Democrats, declining to have them indorse the President for a second term.

Secretary Tumulty's letter was to Edward E. Grosscup, state treasurer of New Jersey. It follows:

"You were generous enough to consult me as to whether the Democrats of New Jersey should at this time endorse the president for a second term. I had a talk with the president about it, and he deeply appreciated the generosity of the suggestion; but New Jersey is his home state; the men who would act in this matter are his own personal friends and he feels that it might seem as if he were taking advantage of the extraordinary situation now existing, to gain some personal advantage through such an expression of confidence by them.

"This would be inconsistent with his whole thought and spirit and he shrinks from it as from something that would embarrass him, rather than help him.

"He feels confident that you will know the spirit in which he says this, that in urging the Democrats of New Jersey not to do this he is not abating in the least his deep appreciation."

It was understood the President decided not to allow the New Jersey Democrats to endorse him for the second term, because it would look as though he were seeking renomination. His attitude, however, was not taken by friends here to mean that he has decided not to accept a renomination if it is offered to him.

Democrats in other states have recently endorsed him for a second term, and no objection was made at the White House.

GRAND DUKE OF RUSSIA REPORTS GERMAN DEFEAT

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Petrograd, Sept. 25.—An official announcement from Grand Duke Nicholas commander in chief of the Russian troops says he has taken possession of the fortified position of Czyschky and Fulstyn, which covered Khyroff and other positions in the Rudymno region (between Jaroslau and Przemysl) taking of [illegible] artillery.

"The Przemysl garrison has evacuated Bonisz and Medyka and has been confined in the eastern segment to the line of forts.

"There has been no fighting on the German front."

WIRELESS REPORTS ACCIDENT.

CONGRESS WILL BE IN SESSION MONTH LONGER

Washington, Sept. 25. The legislative program before the house will keep congress in session at least a month longer, according to Chairman Henry of the rules committee.

For Bombardment of Verdun, and the Plain East of the City is Strewn With Dead, Who Have Fallen In Repeated Advances, Which Have Followed Each Other With Lightning Rapidity

COMPARATIVE LULL IS REPORTED IN BATTLE

Censorship of News Coming Out of London is More Plainly Manifest Than Ever Before, and it is Difficult to Form Definite Conclusions From What Leaks Through—An Unbroken Series of Russian Victories is Reported But Censor Deletes Important Dispatch.

The thirteenth day of the great battle of the Aisne to the northwest of Paris, finds the Franco-British and German armies still fighting desperately, with the Germans fiercely resisting the gradual advance of the allies on General von Kluck's flank.

The French army is now entrenched in a position between the river Somme and the river Oise, in a position approximately 60 miles north of Paris.

On the eastern end of the battle line in France, the Germans are reported to be making a determined assault on the Verdun positions. One report of the fighting there places the German casualties at 10,000 dead and 15,000 wounded.

The German army headquarters in its latest official statement regarding the situation in France confines itself to stating that there have been some minor engagements but that nothing of importance has transpired.

The sharpening of the censorship over news passing through the hands of the British authorities, as announced last night would be put into effect, is apparent to a marked degree today. A considerable amount of unofficial reports, comment and special dispatches from the war zone is not being transmitted from England.

In the eastern theater the Russian pursuit of the Austro-German forces in Galicia continues. A Russian official statement says the Galician fortified positions of Czyschky and Foulstyn, together with all the Austrian artillery, have been captured.

Following the capture of Jaroslau, the Russian flag has moved forward 12 miles to the west of that position and now flies over the town of Przeworsk and Nancut.

The Russians claim to be steadily closing in on Cracow.

The Berne government is reported to have declined Germany's request for permission to send her forces through Switzerland. Italy, it is said, is prepared to defend Switzerland's neurality should Germany forcibly attempt to cross the frontier.

A French official announcement states that the Germans are again bombarding the historic cathedral at Reims.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

London, Sept. 25.—From Peronne on the west to Lorraine on the east, along a battle line that would take a pedestrian a fortnight to cover, there came to London during the forenoon today nothing to indicate that either of the vast armies whose millions like moles are conducting their operations virtually underground, had yielded at any important point.

It has been said that a new battle was developing on the allies left wing, but so far as London is concerned this as yet lacks official confirmation. There were also reports that the Germans have made gigantic preparations to renew the siege of Verdun.

The heaviest siege artillery, according to these reports, is being transported by the Germans from Metz, and they are sacrificing thousands of lives in their endeavors to place these monsters in position. The plain to the east of Verdun as said in London to be strewn with 10,000 dead and 15,000 wounded, the result of repeated German advances which have followed each other with lightning like rapidity.

Official statements bear out other reports that there has been a comparative lull through the center of the battle line— (portions of this dispatch have been deleted by the British censors) almost unbroken series of Russian victories — (another group of words taken out by the censor)— then the situation there should come to a head perhaps before the termination of the present struggle in France.

While dispatches from Vienna insist that the positions of the Austrian army are favorable, as concentrated in their new formations in Galicia, ad-

Germans Order Impartial Investigation of Louvain's Destruction, by a Lawyer

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Berlin, Sept. 25.—(By Wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—The German government has ordered that an exhaustive judiciary inquiry be made at once by an independent lawyer in the destruction of the Belgian town of Louvain.

An inquiry already made is declared that on a signal given near the Louvain station by red and green rockets, the civilian population began firing at the German troops.

The German press formally protests against the bombardment of the open town of Dar-Es-Salam, German East Africa, by a British cruiser. The Petit Parisien says that the French commander-in-chief has been compelled to send back the African troops transported to France because they were not fitted out for a winter campaign. The strengthening of the French forces in Morocco is also reported to be necessary.

The French government has ordered the credit Lyonnais to postpone the payment of its half yearly dividend.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Deutsche bank, it was stated that the sound economic structure and the splendid economic mobilization would enable the Germans to fight through the war until Germany's future, politically and economically, was assured.

General Boyers, on explaining his resignation as commander-in-chief of the British forces in South Africa, is reported to have declared that even a part of the British cabinet was not convinced that war with Germany was justified. England, he said, repeatedly violated the independence of other nations and perpetrated in the South African war every possible atrocity.

Pogs in Berlin have received the information that the Russian government has decided to courtmartial the aged Prince Radziwill, leader of the Polish party in the German Reichstag, who has been arrested at St. Petersburg, espionage being given as a pre-

BREACH

BETWEEN VILLA AND CARRANZA MAY BE HEALED WITHOUT HOSTILITIES

Villa's Action Is Supposed to Give a Pretext for Troops In Vera Cruz.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Mexico City, Sept. 25.—Prominent men here believe there still is a chance to make peace between Carranza and Villa before the breach becomes irreparable. Meanwhile the general public here does not seem to have been informed of the controversy.

There has however, been no response to telegrams sent by influential Mexicans to Villa, begging him to make peace. Discussion in official circles indicates a belief that Villa's action might afford a pretext for continued American occupation of Vera Cruz.

Antonio Villareal, governor of the state of Nuevo Leon, who has just left here for Monterey, telegraphed to Villa before starting as follows:

"Let us not drown the ideals of the revolution in human blood, not foment irreparable division through discord. Let us pacify the country and return to reason."

It is reported that President Wilson and Secretary Garrison had not yet considered the possible effect of the Villa revolt on the American evacuation and as Secretary Garrison plans to leave Washington today for the week end, it is probable the question will not be taken up until the cabinet meeting Tuesday. As there are so many other questions to be settled, officials take the view that there is no occasion for a hasty decision concerning the troops.

General Funston in a report today confirmed news of the cutting of rail and wire communication between Vera Cruz and Mexico City. He added that it was not known whether the constitutionalists along the railroad were fighting among themselves or whether the work of destruction was by the former federal soldiers

An American officer on the Arizona frontier, in a report today described the manner of Villa's proclamation of independence.

WASHINGTON IS AWAITING RESULTS OF PEACE OFFERS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Sept. 25.—Administration officials today anxiously awaited the crystalization of events in the break between Generals Carranza and Villa, still hopeful that efforts now being made to settle their differences would meet with success. This feeling is shared also by Rafael Sabaran Campani, head of the constitutionalist agency here, who in a statement, expresses the hope that the troubles between the two generals will be satisfactorily adjustd on the ground that no real cause exists. He has made public correspondence between Carranza and Villa from which he says it is apparent that Villa had no real grounds for the stand he has taken and that a peaceful arrangement between them would be brought about.

Pending the outcome of peace overtures, the Washington government will refrain from interference in the latest troubles between the two generals. It is felt here that the warning given them by Paul Fuller, President Wilson's personal representative, that the administration would discountenance further fighting in Mexico, would be heeded.

The cutting of all telegraphic and telephonic communication and the only railroad betwen Vera Cruz and Mexico City by a force of men under Higenio Aguilar, a former federal general, occasioned some uneasiness in official circles today, especially in view of the fact that many Americans who fled from Mexico City during the revolution had returned to the capital. Officials anxiously awaited the reasons for communication being cut off, and information as to what is transpiring in Mexico City.

Whether these developments in the situation would alter plans of the Washington government for the withdrawal of the American forces from Vera Cruz could not be foretold early today. Consul General Canada at Vera Cruz, has recommended to the state department that in view of the changed situation it would be advisable to retain the American forces there pending more normal conditions. It had been announced officially that the differences between Carranza and Villa would cause no change in the plans for the evacuation of Vera Cruz, although no date had been set.

MEDIATOR APPOINTED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 25.—Telegraphic dispatches received here by Samuel Belden, legal representative for General Carranza from Pesquiera, are now in the city of Mexico, announce that following a conference there today a board of military chiefs has been appointed to mediate the grievances between the constitutionalists and the division of the north commanded by Genera Villa.

SACRIFICING

vices from Petrograd maintain that the Russians are only [illegible] from Cracow. To the north the Russians are said to be [illegible] to sweep on to Breslau in Silesia. But as this has been announced several times already, the British public is inclined to wait further developments before attaching too much importance to the statement.

Snow in Alsace and rain [illegible] along the battle line in France brought home to Englishmen the terrible ordeal their men have undergone and thousands are answering the [illegible] for blankets and overcoats.

The very heavy loss of British officers is today a subject of much comment, editorial and otherwise, and if the present ratio of mortality is continued their loss of officers will be one of Great Britain's most serious problems.

Of the lighter incidents from the front at which the public will smile in spite of itself, is the nickname "Tommy Atkins" has given the projectiles of German's great siege guns. He calls them "Jack Johnsons," or "Black Marias" because they emit a great cloud of black smoke.

No further news has been received here of the reported illness of Emperor William. He is said to be suffering from a severe cold caught in the trenches before Verdun.

The admiralty has issued an official list of the survivors of the cruisers Aboukir, Cressy and Hogue, sunk in the North Sea by a German submarine. This list, with sixty officers previously reported safe, brings the total of survivors up to 839. This, based on unofficial calculations, would leave a death list of about 1,460, as each cruiser carried a complement of over 700 men.

Bordeaux, Sept. 25.—The French foreign office today made the statement that General Stenger, commanding the 53d German infantry brigade, has issued an order of which the following is a translation:

"Make no prisoners. Shoot all who fall into your hands, singly or in groups, and dispatch the wounded, whether armed or unarmed, as the Germans must leave no Frenchman living behind them."

London, Sept. 25.—A dispatch to the Central News from Lucerne, Switzerland, states that military operations in upper Alsace have been brought to a pause in consequence of falls of snow in the mountains and floods in the valleys.

Among the last reservists called up in Alsace, according to the dispatch, are thirty trappist monks from the Oelberg convent.

ERIE FILES ITS ANSWER WITH UTILITIES COM.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Columbus, Sept. 25.—The Erie railroad today filed with the state public utilities commission its answer to the complaint of the American Steel and Wire company, against the railroad companies entering Cleveland. The Erie road offers as its reason for treating the Newburg and South Shore railroad in the matter of car service regulations, the fact it was only following the instructions of the interstate commerce commission. The present status of industries on the short belt railroad is that they enjoy all the benefits of being located upon a trunk line in the matter of rates, but that free time for loading or unloading is calculated from the time the cars are delivered to the Newburg road, whose operations are so large that cars received from connections can hardly be delivered within two days free time allowed.

COMMISSION TO MEET SHIPPERS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Columbus, Sept. 25.—The state agricultural commission has set Wednesday Sept. 30, as the date for the meeting of shippers produce men and commission merchants, with the commission for the purpose of taking over complaints regarding the commission business. The proposed state license law for commission men will also be discussed. The names of more than 20 shippers and commission men from Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, who are expected to be represented, are in the hands of A. P. Sandles, president of the agricultural commission.

Explains Why French Delayed in Coming to the Aid of English.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

New York, Sept. 25.—Another version of the reason why the French delayed in coming to the support of the British when they were hard pressed by the Germans at Mons, was told to her friends in New York today by Eva Gay, of Norwood, Mass., a former Mount Holyoke College girl, who had been teaching school in Spain and returned from England Wednesday on the Olympic.

Miss Gay said that she had been told by English friends, who had relatives connected with the British war office, that General Joffre in response to the request of General French, the English commander, for reinforcements to extricate him from his dangerous position, entrusted orders for the despatch of such reinforcements to a French officer.

When the execution of these orders was delayed an investigation was begun. It was known that the French officer had a German wife. His home in Paris was searched, and therein were found military documents of a treasonable nature. The officer was immediately courtmartialed, convicted and shot.

Miss Gay said that she had been told that the English authorities had refused to permit publication of the affair for the fear of its effect upon the morale of the English troops.

Washington Sept 25.- Mrs. Woodrow Wilson's dying wish that the worst slums in Washington be abolished was finally realized today when the President signed the bill clearing all eyes of dwelling places.

On her deathbed, Mrs. Wilson expressed the hope that the bill would be passed, and both Houses of congress acted. Although it differed in some particulars from the measure as Mrs. Wilson originally championed it, the President decided it accomplished the principal purpose sought.

NAVY TOBACCO PROBLEM HAS NOW BEEN SETTLED

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, Sept. 25.—Navy department officials today were congratulating themselves over the settlement of the question of tobacco in the navy which had been up for consideration for some time and had caused much discussion and speculation. According to announcement by Secretary Daniels all apparently desirable brands will be admitted for sale in the ship store afloat and the commissary store at yards on an equal footing of free and fair competition with one another.

The chemist at the Brooklyn yard will analyze all samples submitted after which the department will enter into contract for furnishing such quantities as may be required of each brand found to conform to the necessary standard of purity.

Specialist Declares Diabetes Cured

Specialists advised the family of David Brunner of the Brunner Mercantile company, New Orleans, that he was in a hopeless condition Patient had Diabetes for fifteen years and Neuritis had developed. He could hardly sleep and at times was delirious. The disease was inherited, patient's father and brother both dying of Diabetes. His wife would not give up and sent for Fulton's Diabetic Compound. Improvement came in a month, and five months later patient "was declared cured by one of the greatest nerve specialists here." Patient writes: (July, 1914) "You can refer people to me."

Please note that specialists determined the hopeless nature of the disease and later confirmed the patient's recovery.

In view of testimony like this from physicians, how can brother physicians hold Diabetic patients to Codeine and certain failure with its unhappy consequences when there is a vegetable infusion that has the effect to reduce sugar in Diabetes and thus permits recoveries like the above in many cases.

OHIO'S MODEL PENITENTIARY

State, Under Direction of Governor Cox, Has Taken Long Step Forward in Treatment of Its Delinquent Citizens, Both Old and Young.

DUE to efforts of Governor James M. Cox, the Ohio board of administration and Preston E. Thomas, the new-idea warden of the Ohio penitentiary, Ohio's state prison, once notorious, has become noted throughout the country for its advanced methods of dealing with the so-called criminal class.

"While we operate the penitentiary on a business basis," says Governor Cox, "we only want to save men. Money is not our object, and as I have said before, 'The state of Ohio does not want to coin gold out of the tears of unfortunates.'"

This is the predominating idea in the new method of administering the affairs of the big penitentiary in Columbus, where Warden Thomas is making men out of as many of the 1,675 prisoners as are susceptible for reformation, and at the same time the administration of Governor Cox is saving the taxpayers many thousands of dollars every year, when compared with former administrations.

Half a dozen measures passed upon the recommendation of Governor Cox

PRESTON E. THOMAS.
New-idea Warden Ohio Penitentiary.

at the last regular session of the legislature were for the benefit of humanity. These included the bill providing for a day school at the penitentiary; for compensation for prisoners' labor; for the new penitentiary farm; for the indeterminate sentence and for the establishment of a bureau for juvenile research.

With the idea that a man can be improved morally by improving him mentally, Governor Cox caused to be introduced and passed the bill providing for a day school at the state prison, the first in the history of the institution. The school system has been worked out by Warden Thomas, and 300 prisoners, most of them, illiterate when received, are acquiring an elementary education, which, together with the religious and industrial training afforded every inmate, is fitting them for a better place in society when they are released.

Thousands of dollars a year are saved the taxpayers through the operation of the prisoners' compensation law, which in a large measure assists financially the dependents of men incarcerated in the Ohio penitentiary, and in numerous cases makes aid from charitable organizations or from counties unnecessary.

Governor Cox's progressive ideas were expressed in House Bill No. 612, passed at his recommendation by the Eightieth general assembly, which gave the Ohio board of administration authority to devise a plan of payment for the labor of prisoners. The prisoners are paid a small wage for their labor, all of which is now given to the state, instead of a contractor, as under the old system. Ninety per cent of a prisoner's earnings is sent to his dependents, and while the amount is comparatively small, it comes as a God-send to the wife and children, who were deprived of support when the prison gates clanged behind their breadwinner. Ten per cent is allowed to stand until the prisoner is finally released.

But the new prison farm in Madison county, made possible through the efforts of Governor Cox, marks the greatest forward step ever made in Ohio in handling transgressors of the laws. It has been pointed out that men can not be reformed and made natural amid unnatural surroundings. With this in mind, Governor Cox recommended the new prison farm, which, when in full operation, with the prison buildings erected, will be cited as the model prison of the country.

The indeterminate sentence law, passed upon the recommendation of Governor Cox, is a step forward in penal affairs that has the hearty approval of the advanced thinkers among the penologists. It is just and fair to prisoner and society as well. Unless the investigation conducted under the laws governing the discharge of a man serving an indeterminate sentence show him worthy and fit to return to the free world, he is detained until he shows moral and mental improvement sufficient to warrant his lease on parole.

Governor Cox did not overlook the juvenile offender, from the ranks of whom is recruited the great majority of the penitentiary population. He caused to be passed a law providing for the establishment of a bureau of juvenile research, which will decide the final disposition of every case arising in the juvenile courts of the state. This bureau acting upon the results of modern psychological tests and other examinations, will decide whether the child should be committed to some institution, or placed in a private family, where proper home training can be had.

These and many other measures for society's and humanity's benefit, urged by and adopted at the recommendation of Governor Cox since he assumed the office, have caused widespread favorable comment, and his progressive plans are being watched by the authorities of other states.

OHIO'S RURAL CREDIT SYSTEM

Building and Loan Associations Lend Money to Farmers at Low Interst Rates--Other States May Adopt Similar Plan.

IN its work of supervising the business of all building and loan associations in Ohio, the state bureau of building and loan associations, under the direction of James A. Devine, comes as close to the people as any other department of state government, yet does not take a cent from the pockets of the tax payers for its operating expenses, amounting to $35,000 a year.

Before Governor Cox, through legislative action, made this bureau a separate department, about $27,000 of this amount came from the taxpayers through the general fund. This year, however, it is self-sustaining, so far as the taxpayers are concerned, as the building and loan associations of the state support it. Under the provisions of a bill passed last year, each association must pay a fee of $20 with the filing of its annual report, which this year will net the state more than $13,000. In addition to this, there is another fee based on the assets of the associations, which will bring the total revenue up to more than enough to pay all the operating expenses of the bureau.

At the beginning of 1913 there were 649 building and loan associations in Ohio, and the year 1914 started off with 661, an increase of 16. The average annual increase in assets is about $[illegible], the total assets last year being $[illegible],000,000.

One of the most interesting and important items in the reports is that referring to loans on farms made by building and loan associations. These reports indicate that Ohio is far in the lead of all other states of the Union in the development of a rural credit system.

Devine asked the associations for details as to whether they make loans on farms, how many they have made, and for what amounts. Responses show that in all but half a dozen counties out of the eighty-eight in Ohio there are building and loan associations that lend money on farms. These associations hold more than 5,000 mortgage loans, representing in money more than $12,000,000.

By his active interest in the management of building and loan associations, by his recommendations to the legislature of laws to protect depositors and his close supervision of the associations through the state bureau, Governor Cox has accomplished a wonderful work in safeguarding the savings of the funds of small depositors, especially the farmers, who are buying homes.

And all this is now done without taking one cent from the pockets of the taxpayers for the maintenance of the state bureau of building and loan associations. This is made possible by the splendid efforts of Governor Cox, who is being commended not only by the thousands of Ohioans, who are receiving the benefits of his thoughtfulness, but by state officials and building and loan association officials of other states, who recognize the progressiveness of the administration of Governor Cox.

Some Highway Truths.

Highway Commissioner James R. Marker publishes and distributes each month a magazine devoted to information about highway development in the state. In it appears in detail reports of the activities of the various departments for the preceding month, information about contracts let and to be let, and other information to stimulate interest in highway improvement.

Republican press agents claim it costs the state $50,000 per year It probably would if they ran it Under Marker it costs only ten per cent of that sum. Republican press agents claim the state's money was used to get out the illustrated souvenir program for the State Fair Good Roads day. That expense was borne by the Good Roads Federation.

If the Republicans had made public the activities of the state departments, when they were in power, in the same frank manner that James Marker has adopted, there would have been no state treasury graft scandal, there would not have been two sky scrapers erected in Columbus with loot from the state treasury.

Since James Marker came in as Highway Commissioner he has voluntarily accounted for his actions. Small wonder the Republicans want to get rid of him, that they misunderstand him and fail to appreciate the straight forward course he has followed.

Awful Load to Carry.

What with the record of Congressman Willis in opposition to the president and his support of reactionaries like Mann and Humphreys, with the Republican "going back" platform, and with the legislative history of Willis as a state representative, the G. O. P. has an awful load to carry.

The legislative record of Mr. Willis was published in yesterday's Advocate. He was opposed to labor, he was aligned with things in favor of certain monied interests. He sat and voted, under the eagle eye of the boss who occupied the chair at the side of the speaker, in the old lobby days, and the tally was kept on him. He opposed the abolition of prison contract labor, he opposed the protection of mechanics, he opposed the eight hour day He favored keeping stock and bond holders off the tax duplicate He signed the "whitewash" report of the treasury examination. He dodged and hedged on things that looked like future issues, but he joined in the "ripper" legislation which aroused such a storm of indignation that the supreme court was compelled to declare it unconstitutional He aided in the Cincinnati "ripper" bill aimed at Mayor Tafel, and at the Toledo "ripper" bill aimed at Mayor Jones.

The contrast with the acts of the Cox administration, which came into being because of the infamous conduct of administrations preceding the time six years ago, is all in favor of the new order. The "going back" that Mr. Willis Wants is set forth in the record.

If ever there was a chance to demonstrate the benefit of a high protective tariff that is now, when protection is complete. Not a single thing is coming into the country from abroad. Yet the calamity howlers are singing the same song they have sung for forty years.

Congressman Willis has always been a good dodger, but he cannot get away from the record of his legislative acts. Walter D. Guilbert saw to it that he voted right when the tally was kept on him

Garfield is still gunning. Watch the bushes around Willis when the rabbits, who would burrow the "good roads" fund are driven out.

Hard Up For An Issue.

(Columbus Dispatch.)

An editorial writer of The Dayton Daily News wrote an unfortunate editorial concerning traveling men. Governor Cox, the owner of The News, disapproved of the editorial and insisted that the writer thereof apoligize to the traveling men. The apology was made. That ought to have settled the matter. In fact, it did settle it for all fair-minded men and newspapers; but it did not settle it for the personal opponents of the governor. These latter are still circulating the original editorial and commenting upon it, urging traveling men and others to vote against the governor because an employe of his made a mistake which there has been a sincere effort to correct.

Governor Cox has been in office more than a year and a half and has been active every day; yet the most serious offense he has committed, as far as these critics are concerned, is that of owning a newspaper in which there was printed an article, the sentiment of which he at once disavowed. They do not accuse him of inefficiency or his administration of graft. They do not deny that great good has come from the progressive laws he has championed. They are simply asking that he be condemned because an employe made a mistake.

Yea, verily, a mighty issue has been raised. Woe unto any business man, if one of his employes nods. Let all those who never made a mistake join in the hue and cry.

What's in a Name?

Mr. Diederich, our consul general at Antwerp, has been transferred to Barcelona. His name is too Teutonic to fall sweetly upon the ears of Belgians. He was suspected of being a German sympathizer, and if so, of belonging to that herd of "German spies" who are encountered in such vast numbers and such unexpected places. There was a good deal of friction between him and the Belgians. Probably his conduct was entirely correct, but in Antwerp his name was very much against him.—Philadelphia Record

At Long Range.

As a gentle reminder of what war is these days, think of some vile enemy attacking Columbus and locating his siege guns over at Plain City or Pataskala and hurling a ton of iron into the city That is what they are doing over in Europe, and they are doing it so accurately that they can strike any spot they want to hit. So, if the imaginary foe at Plain City or Pataskala wanted to hit the state house and dislodge some of our delightful friends in that marble mansion, after the second fire these worthies would be seeking the placid bosom of the Scioto. But doesn't it seem wonderful as well as awful to throw a ton of iron seventeen miles and strike a church, a bridge or a palace as surely as one could hit a bull's eye in a shooting gallery?—Ohio State Journal.

"The Man on the Job."

One of the chief glories of the Taft administration was that it went on wheels. During the four years that he filled the office of chief executive, Mr. Taft traveled over 115,000 miles, outdistancing even his restless predecessor. By way of consolation for being second to Mr. Taft as a Pullman car tourist, Mr. Roosevelt could boast that as president he uttered more words, spoken and written, than any other ten presidents To neither distinction can Woodrow Wilson lay claim. In the eighteen months that he has been president he has traveled little and talked little. He is "the man on the job"—a distinction that is emphasized by his brief visit to Princeton to perform the duties of citizenship in the New Jersey primaries.—New York World.

Fewer Suicides.

Murder and self-destruction are on the decline in Ohio. Statistics of the state just given out by the secretary of state show that there were fewer cases of both homicide and suicide in Ohio during the year ending June 30 this year than during the year immediately preceding. There were 181 homicides in the state in the year ending June 30, 1913, and only 165 during the last year. There were 411 suicides in the state last year, which is four less than during the previous year. The number of indictments for murder in the first degree last year was 95, which is a decrease of 26 as compared with the year next preceding The list as published, while showing a hopeful tone, is far too large. There should be no suicides or homicides at all. A plan that has been tried in some cities has been to have a commission to meet at certain times to discuss with the despondent ways to straighten out their difficulties. There is no denying that good advice and a friendly helping hand will bring many a discouraged one into a healthy train of thought which will make him a useful citizen with its attendant happiness. Discouragement is a form of malady which is easy to overcome if one goes about it in the right way, and the time may come when a community will be held responsibile for care of those who seek death as a means of ending their suffering.—Youngstown Telegram.

COTTON IS KING.

At the outbreak of the European war, cotton shipments abroad were seriously curtailed, and cotton mill owners at home seemed not unwilling to take advantage of the growers' plight and buy cotton at greatly reduced prices. This situation resulted in the "buy-a-bale" movement, which has spread throughout the South and has received encouragement in the North.

Pointed Observations

We are pleased to note that the people who used to seize every opportunity of telling how much better they managed everything in Europe are now wisely maintaining a significant silence.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

In this war nothing is sure but death in Europe and taxes in America.—Washington Post.

In spite of the high prices reported elsewhere, pork is at a discount in Washington just now.—New York World.

We read so much war news that when we wrote a letter to a prominent wife's relative in Pittsburg the other day, informing him kindly but firmly that it wouldn't be convenient to entertain him at this time we absent-mindedly addressed it to Pittsgrad and he never got it and is now with us—Ohio State Journal.

With so much going on in Europe one can't be sure of many things. But one thing looms up rather clearly; this is a bum year for Napoleons. —Chicago Tribune.

The latest White Paper goes to show that Austria was not equipped with a self-starter.—Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

One advantage in the kind of war news now being distributed is that the well-wisher of either side can pick out the dispatches that suit him and be happy.—Kansas City Journal.

Dispatches from Galicia say that Przemysl is being bombarded. It looks easier to bombard than to pronounce.—Chicago News.

The Allies say the kaiser must go, and at the same time they are afraid to think where he may go.—Indianapolis Star.

Congress has apparently had to give up looking around for a war tax that everybody wanted to pay.—Chicago Herald.

Price of Prunes.

The cheering word is that the price of the prune will in no way be affected by the war in Europe. One can't help admiring the prune after all. it is so thoroughly American that it holds its own place on the table and in the market reports.—Youngstown Vindicator.

Cost of the War.

Wild guesses are being made as to the entire cost of the European war. They must be guesses, for no war of such an extensive and intensive scale as this was ever waged before. The cost of other noted wars, however, may furnish some sort of basis for an estimate of the enormous cost of war operations now in progress, in mere dollars and cents. The British American war of 1812 cost $300,000,000. The United States war with Mexico of 1846-8 cost $180,000,000. The Crimean was cost $1,660,000,000. The American Civil war cost $5,000,000,000. The Franco-Prussian war of 1870 cost $3,000,000,000. The British Boer war cost $1,300,000,000 The Spanish-American war cost $800,000,000. The cost of the Russo-Japanese war was $1,735,000,000.—Columbus Dispatch.

Where Beans Are Valuable.

Great interest is shown by the natives of Manchuria in the crops of the common soy, or soy bean. Mr. Clarence Poe, the author of "Where Half the World Is Waking Up," says:

"Bankers, merchants, farmers, even the ladies one meets in drawing rooms in the foreign concessions, not only 'know beans,' but can talk beans too. If the present rate of progress is maintained it will not be long until no one will enumerate the world's great crops—wheat, corn, rice, cotton, etc.—without including beans. In a very great measure the beans have the same properties as cotton seed, for an oil is extracted that is used for much the same purposes as cottonseed oil, and the residue, called 'bean cake,' is about the equivalent of cottonseed meal. My first acquaintance with the bean cake was in Japan, where I found it enriching the earth for vegetable growing Japan imports an average of half a million tons a year to put under its crops Manchuria also uses not a little for the same purpose."

By the Way

You can't get away from the fact that the average man is petty, trivial and tiresome, that he is often offensive in speech and manner, and that he seldom knows what his wrongs are until some one tells him.

Ephy Wiley says the Republicans eventually will "lay" the European war "on" the Democratic party.

"I don't like," said Dodd Gaston yesterday, speaking of a man with whom he is none too friendly, "I don't like any one of the three hairs on his head."

The man who doesn't amount to much usually has his sign out.

PUNCTUALITY.

The punctual man is a bird; he always is true to his word; he knows that the skate who is ten minutes late is trifling and vain and absurd. He says. "I'll be with you at four"; though torrents may ruthlessly pour, you know when the clock strikes the hour he will knock with his punctual fist at your door And you say, "He is surely a trump! I haven't much use for the chump who is evermore late, making other men wait—the place for that gent is the dump." The punctual man is a peach; he sticks to his dates like a leech; it's a pity, alas, that he hasn't a class of boneheaded sluggards to teach. He's welcome wherever he wends; the country is full of his friends, he goes by the watch and he ne'er makes a botch of his time, so he never offends. If he says he'll get married at nine, you can bet he'll be standing in line, with his beautiful bride, and the knot will be tied ere the clock is done making the sign. If he says he'll have cashed in at five, at that hour he will not be alive; you can order his shroud and assemble a crowd, clear out to the boneyard to drive. The punctual man is a jo! The biggest success that I know! He is grand and sublime, he is always on time, not late by ten minutes or so.

FIGHT LASTED SEVEN DAYS ON VISTULA RIVER

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Paris, Sept. 25.—Telegraphing from Petrograd, the correspondent of the Havas news agency says that among the engagements preceding the capture of Jareslau by the Russians that Sadova on the Vistula river was the most important.

This fight lasted seven days without interruption. The Austrians were entrenched on the summits of some wooded hills rising from a broad and unsheltered plain. The Rusians were forced to charge across this open plain against a raking machine gun fire. Their losses were tremendous and they were repulsed many times until finally their guns found the range; then their charge was successful.

CONGRATULATIONS ON SON'S DEATH.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Biarritz, France, Sept. 25.—via Bordeaux, Sept. 25.—11:35 p. m.—Dr. De Lostalot, a local physician who has in the past been consulted by King Alfonso of Spain, has received from his majesty a telegram expressing sympathy on the death of a son in battle. The message dated at the royal palace, Madrid reads as follows:

"I have just learned of the loss of your son. The finest death a man can have is falling for his country. I congratulate you, but at the same time I feel deeply for your father's heart."

SICK DOCTOR

Proper Food Put Him Right.

The food experience of a physician in his own case worn and weak from sickness and when needing nourishment the worst way, is valuable:

"An attack of grip, so severe it came near making an end of me, left my stomach in such condition I could not retain any ordinary food. I knew of course that I must have food nourishment or I could never recover.

"I began to take four teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and cream three times a day and for 2 weeks this was almost my only food. It tasted so delicious that I enjoyed it immensely and my stomach handled it perfectly from the first mouthful. It was so nourishing I was quickly built back to normal health and strength.

"Grape-Nuts is of a great value as food to sustain life during serious attacks in which the stomach is so deranged it cannot digest and assimilate other foods

"I am convinced that were Grape-Nuts more widely used by physicians, it would save many lives that are otherwise lost from lack of nourishment." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The most perfect food in the world. Trial of Grape-Nuts and cream 10 days proves. "There's a Reason."

Dufferin's Odd Right Eye.

Sir Thomas Barclay in "Thirty Years Anglo-French Reminiscences" tells how Lord Lytton once asked Lord Dufferin what he thought was the source of his success in conducting intercourse with eastern princes. "My glass eye," said he. "When I had anything serious to negotiate I fixed them with the glass eye and watched them with the other." He may, of course, have meant his monocle, adds Sir Thomas, who also describes the effect of Lord Dufferin's odd right eye upon himself:

"When he spoke to you he dropped his monocle and fixed you with a steady gaze which made you feel as if you were giving yourself away to one whom no human sympathy would move. When you had finished what you were saying he would go on watching you with the same steadiness as if he were listening now to what you were thinking. You would wabble on the thin planks on to which in your confusion you had stepped, and then in the uncomfortable silence you would say something you did not intend, and Dufferin seemed to be waiting for that."

Failers Called Mental Defectives.

According to a Brooklyn physician, most accidents, as well as divorces and crimes, are in reality due to defective mentality. When a person gets caught in a maze of traffic and does not know whether it is better to go backward or forward he is, according to this doctor, a target for everything coming his way.

The indecision or lack of judgment leads to frequent accidents with the same individual. Of 112 persons who were questioned in four semiprivate hospitals forty-six had had previous accidents and thirty-two more than one such accident. Out of about 50,000 examinations of defectives there was scarcely a case that did not show many scars. Inquiry among eight automobile owners showed that the opinion commonly held of reckless chauffeurs among their fellows was that the reckless ones were not quite normal, or, as they phrased it, were "crazy."—New York World.

The World's Strangest University.

Founded in the year 972 A. D., the Mohammedan university of El-Azhar ("The Luminous") is one of the oldest existing and strangest universities in the world.

El-Azhar is the Oxford of the Moslem world and is at present attended by upward of 10,000 students of all ages and from every eastern country from the Caucasus to Somaliland. Board and lodging is free. The teaching consists chiefly of Mohammedan dogma, which is laboriously committed to memory from sacred books.

The students squat in groups on the floor of the immense building with their boots—which have to be taken off on entering—and their daily rations beside them and accompany the droning repetition of their lessons with a rhythmic swaying of the body. Writing is done on tin slates.

Girls are allowed to attend the lectures, but only as listeners; they may not speak.

Dogs For Draft Work.

The use of dogs for draft work was prohibited in London in 1839, but remained legal in the provinces for another fifteen years. Sir Walter Gilbey, in his "Recollections of Seventy Years," notes as a feature of his boyhood at Bishop Stortford the numbers of dog carriages and carts on the Essex lanes and highroads. "All sorts and conditions of men used dog carriages, from small tradesmen to poorer people who could not afford a pony. Dog draft was abolished because certain people agitated against it as cruel, but I think that generally the dogs were neither ill treated nor overworked. There are probably many people living who can remember when the tugging propensity of the dog was utilized in England. Workingmen had their 'dogcarts,' in which they made Sunday and holiday excursions. The dogs employed were, as a rule, heavy half bred bull mastiffs with a touch of the lurcher in them. They thought nothing of drawing their masters fifty or sixty miles in a day."—London Sphere.

Do You Suffer From Tired Eyes?

If you suffer from tired eyes—and who does not at times?—you may be glad to try a French author's accidentally discovered remedy. It is a simple method of restoring the vision to freshness. One night when engaged in writing an article his eyes gave out before he could finish and he was compelled to stop. So, turning from his unfinished manuscript, his eyes fell upon some scraps of colored silk that his wife had been using for patchwork. These gay colors had a peculiar attraction for wearied optics. On resuming his work after gazing at them for several minutes he found them quite fresh. After several experiments he surrounded his inkstand with brilliantly colored striped silk material that his eyes must rest on every time he dips his pen into the ink. This brings instant relief.

How Perfectly French!

There is a prefect in the south of France who has a mania for his wife's hands, which are particularly beautiful. So that he may always have the object of his adoration under his eyes a model in bronze of one of the hands has been made and the prefect keeps it on his desk at his office.

An official in this prefect's district, anxious to secure his influence for political preferment, has devised a delightful way of paying him a delicate compliment. Every time he enters the great man's office he walks silently to his desk, takes up the bronze hand and kisses it respectfully.

The prefect is so much impressed by this act of gallantry that the tactful young man has already secured lucrative promotion.—London Mirror.

Rice Throwing at Weddings.

The origin of rice throwing at weddings is accounted for by a quaint Chinese legend. A great sorcerer, Chao, became jealous of another sorcerer, a woman, Peach Blossom, and thereby conceived a plan to destroy her. He persuaded her parent to give her in marriage to his supposed son and craftily chose the most unlucky day for the wedding—the day when the "golden pheasant" was in the ascendant—so that when when the bride entered the red chair the spirit bird would kill her with its beak. Peach Blossom, however, prudently gave directions for rice to be scattered at the door, and thus she passed out unscathed, while the spirit bird was busy eating the meal she had provided for it.

To Set a Razor.

When a razor begins to "pull" and drag the hair instead of cutting it there is no need to send it to the barber to be set. There is a perfectly simple method by which any one can put it in trim. All that is necessary is to turn an ordinary sharp table knife edge upward and lay the razor flat on the edge of the knife. Then draw the razor along downward, pressing lightly all the while from heel to toe, as in stropping, turning and repeating the operation half a dozen times. If the razor is then stropped the keenness of its edge will be surprising.—Pearson's Weekly.

Gigantic Gas Tank.

The largest of the many huge gas holders in existence is one completed in 1910 for the Newtown Gas company, borough of Queens, New York city. The holder is 251 feet in diameter and 275 feet high. Such is the height of this vast cylinder that it is a familiar landmark for many miles around New York city.

Some Highway Truths.

Highway Commissioner James R. Marker publishes and distributes each month a magazine devoted to information about highway development in the state. In it appears in detail reports of the activities of the various departments for the preceding month, information about contracts let and to be let, and other information to stimulate interest in highway improvement.

Republican press agents claim it costs the state $50,000 per year. It probably would if they ran it. Under Marker it costs only ten per cent of that sum. Republican press agents claim the state's money was used to get out the illustrated souvenir program for the State Fair Good Roads day. That expense was borne by the Good Roads Federation.

If the Republicans had made public the activities of the state departments, when they were in power, in the same frank manner that James Marker has adopted, there would have been no state treasury graft scandal, there would not have been two sky scrapers erected in Columbus with loot from the state treasury.

Since James Marker came in as Highway Commissioner he has voluntarily accounted for his actions. Small wonder the Republicans want to get rid of him, that they misunderstand him and fail to appreciate the straight forward course he has followed.

Awful Load to Carry.

What with the record of Congressman Willis in opposition to the president and his support of reactionaries like Mann and Humphreys, with the Republican "going back" platform, and with the legislative history of Willis as a state representative, the G. O. P. has an awful load to carry.

The legislative record of Mr. Willis was published in yesterday's Advocate. He was opposed to labor, he was aligned with things in favor of certain monied interests. He sat and voted, under the eagle eye of the boss who occupied the chair at the side of the speaker, in the old lobby days, and the tally was kept on him. He opposed the abolition of prison contract labor, he opposed the protection of mechanics, he opposed the eight hour day. He favored keeping stock and bond holders off the tax duplicate. He signed the "whitewash" report of the treasury examination. He dodged and hedged on things that looked like future issues, but he joined in the "ripper" legislation which aroused such a storm of indignation that the supreme court was compelled to declare it unconstitutional. He aided in the Cincinnati "ripper" bill aimed at Mayor Tafel, and at the Toledo "ripper" bill aimed at Mayor Jones.

The contrast with the acts of the Cox administration, which came into being because of the infamous conduct of administrations preceding the time six years ago, is all in favor of the new order. The "going back" that Mr. Willis wants is set forth in the record.

If ever there was a chance to demonstrate the benefit of a high protective tariff that is now, when protection is complete. Not a single thing is coming into the country from abroad. Yet the calamity howlers are singing the same song they have sung for forty years.

Congressman Willis has always been a good dodger, but he cannot get away from the record of his legislative acts. Walter D. Guilbert saw to it that he voted right when the tally was kept on him.

Garfield is still gunning. Watch the bushes around Willis when the rabbits, who would burrow the "good roads" fund are driven out.

Republican success in 1914 in Ohio means repudiation of the Wilson policy.

Hard Up For An Issue.

(Columbus Dispatch.)

An editorial writer of The Dayton Daily News wrote an unfortunate editorial concerning traveling men. Governor Cox, the owner of The News, disapproved of the editorial and insisted that the writer thereof apoligize to the traveling men. The apology was made. That ought to have settled the matter. In fact, it did settle it for all fair-minded men and newspapers; but it did not settle it for the personal opponents of the governor. These latter are still circulating the original editorial and commenting upon it, urging traveling men and others to vote against the governor because an employe of his made a mistake which there has been a sincere effort to correct.

Governor Cox has been in office more than a year and a half and has been active every day; yet the most serious offense he has committed, as far as these critics are concerned, is that of owning a newspaper in which there was printed an article, the sentiment of which he at once disavowed. They do not accuse him of inefficiency or his administration of graft. They do not deny that great good has come from the progressive laws he has championed. They are simply asking that he be condemned because an employe made a mistake.

Yea, verily, a mighty issue has been raised. Woe unto any business man, if one of his employes nods. Let all those who never made a mistake join in the hue and cry.

What's in a Name?

Mr. Diederich, our consul general at Antwerp, has been transferred to Barcelona. His name is too Teutonic to fall sweetly upon the ears of Belgians. He was suspected of being a German sympathizer, and if so, of belonging to that herd of "German spies" who are encountered in such vast numbers and such unexpected places. There was a good deal of friction between him and the Belgians. Probably his conduct was entirely correct, but in Antwerp his name was very much against him.—Philadelphia Record.

At Long Range.

As a gentle reminder of what war is these days, think of some vile enemy attacking Columbus and locating his siege guns over at Plain City or Pataskala and hurling a ton of iron into the city. That is what they are doing over in Europe, and they are doing it so accurately that they can strike any spot they want to hit. So, if the imaginary foe at Plain City or Pataskala wanted to hit the state house and dislodge some of our delightful friends in that marble mansion, after the second fire these worthies would be seeking the placid bosom of the Scioto. But doesn't it seem wonderful as well as awful to throw a ton of iron seventeen miles and strike a church, a bridge or a palace as surely as one could hit a bull's eye in a shooting gallery?—Ohio State Journal.

"The Man on the Job."

One of the chief glories of the Taft administration was that it went on wheels. During the four years that he filled the office of chief executive, Mr. Taft traveled over 115,000 miles, outdistancing even his restless predecessor. By way of consolation for being second to Mr. Taft as a Pullman car tourist, Mr. Roosevelt could boast that as president he uttered more words, spoken and written, than any other ten presidents. To neither distinction can Woodrow Wilson lay claim. In the eighteen months that he has been president he has traveled little and talked little. He is "the man on the job"—a distinction that is emphasized by his brief visit to Princeton to perform the duties of citizenship in the New Jersey primaries.—New York World.

Fewer Suicides.

Murder and self-destruction are on the decline in Ohio. Statistics of the state just given out by the secretary of state show that there were fewer cases of both homicide and suicide in Ohio during the year ending June 30 this year than during the year immediately preceding. There were 181 homicides in the state in the year ending June 30, 1913, and only 165 during the last year. There were 411 suicides in the state last year, which is four less than during the previous year. The number of indictments for murder in the first degree last year was 95, which is a decrease of 26 as compared with the year next preceding. The list as published, while showing a hopeful tone, is far too large. There should be no suicides or homicides at all. A plan that has been tried in some cities has been to have a commission to meet at certain times to discuss with the despondent ways to straighten out their difficulties. There is no denying that good advice and a friendly helping hand will bring many a discouraged one into a healthy train of thought which will make him a useful citizen with its attendant happiness. Discouragement is a form of malady which is easy to overcome if one goes about it in the right way, and the time may come when a community will be held responsible for care of those who seek death as a means of ending their suffering.—Youngstown Telegram.

COTTON IS KING.

At the outbreak of the European war, cotton shipments abroad were seriously curtailed, and cotton mill owners at home seemed not unwilling to take advantage of the growers' plight and buy cotton at greatly reduced prices. This situation resulted in the "buy-a-bale" movement, which has spread throughout the South and has received encouragement in the North.

Cost of the War.

Wild guesses are being made as to the entire cost of the European war. They must be guesses, for no war of such an extensive and intensive scale as this was ever waged before. The cost of other noted wars, however, may furnish some sort of basis for an estimate of the enormous cost of war operations now in progress, in mere dollars and cents. The British American war of 1812 cost $300,000,000. The United States war with Mexico of 1846-8 cost $180,000,000. The Crimean was cost $1,660,000,000. The American Civil war cost $8,000,000,000. The Franco-Prussian war of 1870 cost $3,000,000,000. The British Boer war cost $1,300,000,000. The Spanish-American war cost $800,000,000. The cost of the Russo-Japanese war was $1,735,000,000.—Columbus Dispatch.

We read so much war news that when we wrote a letter to a prominent wife's relative in Pittsburg the other day, informing him kindly but firmly that it wouldn't be convenient to entertain him at this time we absent-mindedly addressed it to Pittsgrad and he never got it and is now with us—Ohio State Journal.

Where Beans Are Valuable.

Great interest is shown by the natives of Manchuria in the crops of the common soy, or soy bean. Mr. Clarence Poe, the author of "Where Half the World Is Waking Up," says:

"Bankers, merchants, farmers, even the ladies one meets in drawing rooms in the foreign concessions, not only 'know beans,' but can talk beans too. If the present rate of progress is maintained it will not be long until no one will enumerate the world's great crops—wheat, corn, rice, cotton, etc.—without including beans. In a very great measure the beans have the same properties as cotton seed, for an oil is extracted that is used for much the same purposes as cottonseed oil, and the residue, called 'bean cake,' is about the equivalent of cottonseed meal. My first acquaintance with the bean cake was in Japan, where I found it enriching the earth for vegetable growing. Japan imports an average of half a million tons a year to put under its crops. Manchuria also uses not a little for the same purpose."

By the Way

You can't get away from the fact that the average man is petty, trivial and tiresome, that he is often offensive in speech and manner, and that he seldom knows what his wrongs are until some one tells him.

Ephy Wiley says the Republicans eventually will "lay" the European war "on" the Democratic party.

"I don't like," said Dodd Gaston yesterday, speaking of a man with whom he is none too friendly, "I don't like any one of the three hairs on his head."

The man who doesn't amount to much usually has his sign out.

A woman loves her children and her canned fruit.

Good coffee is the sort to which you are accustomed.

Tank Beverly says Horace Malapan is the sort of fellow for whom the Gentlemen's Home Journal is printed.

If you talk long enough with the man who believes all politicians are grafters, you will find that his candidacy for postmaster was not indorsed by the congresman from his district.

The favorite form of death is old age.

The two weeks' growth is probably the most offensive form of whisker.

Trying to conceal the fact that they are poor is what keeps most men poor.

Eph Wiley, who hasn't been to school for forty years, is curious to know whether the search for the greatest common divisor is still being prosecuted.

A man's concern for the "toiling masses" generally is prompted by the thought that the "toiling masses" can thus be induced to reciprocate.

PUNCTUALITY.

The punctual man is a bird; he always is true to his word; he knows that the skate who is ten minutes late is trifling and vain and absurd. He says, "I'll be with you at four"; though torrents may ruthlessly pour, you know when the clock strikes the hour he will knock with his punctual fist at your door. And you say, "He is surely a trump! I haven't much use for the chump who is evermore late, making other men wait—the place for that gent is the dump." The punctual man is a peach; he sticks to his dates like a leech; it's a pity, alas, that he hasn't a class of boneheaded sluggards to teach. He's welcome wherever he wends; the country is full of his friends; he goes by the watch and he ne'er makes a botch of his time, so he never offends. If he says he'll get married at nine, you can bet he'll be standing in line, with his beautiful bride, and the knot will be tied ere the clock is done making the sign. If he says he'll have cashed in at five, at that hour he will not be alive; you can order his shroud and assemble a crowd, clear out to the boneyard to drive. The punctual man is a jo! The biggest success that I know! He is grand and sublime, he is always on time, not late by ten minutes or so.

Chile in 1913 imported 1,128,840 tons of coal.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — THE LOCAL COLOR IS LOCATED. — By "HOP"

DEFINITE NEWS IS RECEIVED OF GERMAN LINER

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Rio Janeiro, via London, Sept. 25.—The German steamer Prussia has arrived at Santos and landed the master and fifteen men of the British steamer Indian Prince which was sunk by the German auxiliary cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm.

This is the first definite news of the Kronprinz Wilhelm, a North German Lloyd liner, since she was reported as having been seen transferring coal to the German cruiser Karlsruhe in West Indian waters. British cruisers came up while the transfer of the coal was in progress and the Kronprinz Wilhelm took to her heels while the Karlsruhe and the British warship engaged in a long range running duel which appears to have been without serious result.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm sailed from New York ostensibly for Bremen on August 4. It was stated after her departure that she had on board provisions and a large store of coal which it was expected she would transfer to the German cruisers operating in American waters. The North German Lloyd company however, denied the report that the steamer carried war supplies. Since her departure from New York the whereabouts of the Kronprinz Wilhelm has been considerable of a mystery except in the one instance when the British cruisers reported that they had seen her unloading coal at sea.

The British steamer Indian Prince a vessel of 1775 tons sailed from Rio Janeiro on August 25 for Port-of-Spain and New York

IRON TRADE REVIEW

Cleveland, Sept. 25.—The Iron Trade Review today says: Business drags and somewhat impatiently awaits changes in financial conditions. Eastern ship yards figuring on new business find that several companies which are anxious to order boats are unable to do so for financial reasons. Many building operations are held up on account of the conservative policy of banks. Municipalities continue to have trouble in selling bonds and the result is that very few orders for cast iron pipe are being placed.

In some cases, foreign inquiries are assuming more definite form. An order for 30,000 steel barrels for export is about to be placed in the east. English mills have taken 6,000 tons of rails for South Australian railways, on which American mills have been figuring with some confidence that the order would be taken by them.

High School Coach Must Develop Team Largely Out Of Much Green Material

Prof. Millisor, who is coaching the high school football squad, is facing the problem of constructing a team which will beat Mt. Vernon, with but five veterans as a nucleus. A squad of more than thirty husky youngsters has reported for practice and hard work has been the slogan since school opened. But the task is a heavy one and would discourage a coach with less spirit than Prof. Millisor.

The Mazey brothers, Thomas and Clark, last year's guard and center, have been out in uniform regularly. Hawkins, a guard, and Charles Brown, who played both line and back field positions last year, and Wall who was a substitute guard and tackle, are the veterans who must be depended upon as the mainstays of the new team.

Brown has been elected captain of the team, and Hawkins is the manager. Three games in the nature of practice events will be played before the important contest with Mt. Vernon is scheduled. It is hoped that the experience in these three games will be enough to round out the locals and put them in good shape for the Knox county warriors.

Last spring, Mt. Vernon's athletes held regular football practice, this resulting from the adoption of the slogan "Beat Newark." They decided spring practice was necessary and no doubt they were right about it. Newark's slogan didn't need any change to make the boys' determined to beat Mt. Vernon.

While there was no spring practice here, the footballers practiced each night after working hours two weeks before school opened and they have worked hard since returning to their studies. It is evident that the team will be light but much faster than usual, which makes up for the loss of weight.

Granville High, Utica High and Doan academy will be played in succession. An Oberlin man is coaching at Utica and is developing a splendid team with the little material furnished by a small school.

At Zanesville Pfeiffer of Denison fame, is coaching the gridiron squad and stiff resistance may be expected from that quarter when Newark and Zanesville clash October 21.

The game with Columbus North High on November 11 will be played in the morning to give the local boys an opportunity to see the State-Oberlin game at Ohio field in the afternoon.

The season's schedule is complete except for one open date, Nov. 7. This may be filled later. The date announced for Delaware High is not definite and may be changed. The schedule is as follows:

Sept. 29—Granville High at Newark.
Oct. 3—Utica High at Newark.
Oct. 10—Doane Acad. at Granville.
Oct. 17—Mt. Vernon High at Mt. Vernon.
Oct. 24—Zanesville High at Newark.
Oct. 31—Delaware High at Newark.
Nov. 7—Open.
Nov. 14—North High at Columbus.
Nov. 21—Coshocton High at Coshocton.

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Nine-Tenths of All Stomach Trouble Said to Be Due to Acidity.

A Physician's Advice on Cause and Cure

A famous physician whose successful researches into the cause and cure of stomach and intestinal diseases have earned for him an international reputation, said in the course of a recent lecture that nearly all intestinal troubles, as well as many diseases of the vital organs, were directly traceable to a deranged condition of the stomach which in turn was due nine times out of ten to excessive acidity, commonly termed sour stomach or heartburn, which not only irritated and inflamed the delicate lining of the stomach, but also set up gastritis and stomach ulcers. It is interesting to note that he condemns the use of patent medicines as well as of medical treatment for the stomach, stating that he and his colleagues have secured remarkable results by the use of ordinary bisurated magnesia, which, by neutralizing the acidity of the food removes the source of the trouble. He contends that it is as foolish to treat the stomach itself as it would be for a man who stepped on a tack to rub liniment on the foot without first removing the tack. Remove the tack and the foot will heal itself—neutralize the acid and the stomach troubles will disappear. Irritating medicines and medical treatments are useless, so long as the contents of the stomach remain acid; remove the acidity, and there will be no need for medicine—the inflamed lining of the stomach will then heal itself. Sufferers from acidity, sour stomach or heartburn should get a small bottle of bisurated magnesia from their druggist, and take a teaspoonful in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after meals, repeating in fifteen minutes, if necessary, this being the dose which the doctor has found most efficacious in all cases.—Advertisement.

NEW WORLD'S CHAMPION.

Grand Rapids, Sept. 25.—By defeating Directum I in three straight heats yesterday afternoon, William became the world's champion pacer. Each heat of the match race, which was for a purse of $6000, was a real contest. In the first heat Directum I forced William to a whipping finish to win the mile in 2:01¾ by a nose margin. In the second heat William won by half a length in 2:01¼. William took the lead at the beginning of the third and final heat and never was headed. William won the heat slowed up in 2:02½. The track was in splendid condition, but a cold brisk wind impeded the horse on the back stretch.

Carnegie Arrives and Tells How War Started, Blaming It on German Military Caste

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

New York, Sept. 25.—Andrew Carnegie, advocate of international peace reached New York today aboard the steamer Mauretania with a new version of how the war in Europe was started.

"I'll tell you how the war started," said Mr. Carnegie. "The Kaiser was on a holiday on his yacht in the North sea. While he was away he received a telegram asking him to return to Berlin. When he returned the mischief had already been done.

"The Kaiser himself is a marvelous man, possessed of wonderful ingenuity. He has done more good for Germany than any other man before him. He has built up a great foreign commerce and a marvelous international business.

"The Kaiser himself is a peace loving man.

"The trouble was started by the German military caste that rules the country. They are responsible for the war. The Kaiser gathered around him a group of men who, unknown to him acted in concert and in his absence took the action that could not be altered.

"As for my own country I do now know that I have reason to thank God that I live in a brotherhood of forty-eight nations—forty-eight nations in one union."

Mrs. Carnegie and their daughter accompanied Mr. Carnegie on the trip across the Atlantic.

American duties to the world Mr. Carnegie added, is to point the way to an everlasting peace.

"What we want is an international court to stop the war. No real friend of lasting peace wants to stop the war now. That would be a short sighted policy and would be but an armed truce."

A SIMPLE WAY TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Prevent Falling Hair and End Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you value your hair, you should get rid of dandruff at once, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it.

Newest Krupp Guns Used in Bombardment of Liege, Is Story of an Eye Witness

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Berlin, Sept. 25.—The following descriptions of the devastation at Liege and Namur are translated from accounts in the Tageblatt:

"We reached Liege on the evening of a stormy day. We traveled through streets where the smoke of burned houses was still curling upward, streets that showed no signs of life. Patrols marched through the city. The beautiful shops across from the university were a field of ruins. I was told that two nights before, on August 21st, shots came from these shops as if by prearrangement. The inhabitants of the houses were dragged out, the women were torn from the men and whoever had a weapon in his hands was shot. In a few minutes the street was sown with corpses. The houses were set on fire.

"Eye-witnesses described for me the details of the conquest of Liege. London, the strongest fort, was bombarded by the newest Krupp guns, which were stationed in the market place in the middle of the city. Every window pane in the vicinity was broken by the concussion, and pieces of roof fell from some of the houses. The fort soon surrendered. A division of [illegible] were the first men to enter the [illegible]. The destruction was terrible. About [illegible] lay piled inside the stone wall. The stench was unbearable. About [illegible] wounded were counted. The only man uninjured was the commandant. A wounded man who evidently was about to be operated on, lay in the lazarett. He had been killed by a shell. Liege had altogether thirteen forts. Nine were taken by infantry storm, the others were reduced by artillery. The forts are being repaired for German use by the inhabitants of the city, who get six francs a day for their work.

"A German, who had lain in a Belgian fort as prisoner and witnessed the whole bombardment, described the course of the battle. The bombardment he said, began at midnight on August 6th. One shell after another exploded, and Liege was soon afire in many places. From every roof and window in the houses came the rain of bullets. Under this fire the Germans stormed through the village of Roncourt and deployed in a wheat field. Two hundred Germans opened a rapid fire on 2,000 Belgians of whom 500 fell. Nineteen German prisoners were confined in a cellar when the Germans' heavy artillery began firing. They could hear the shells coming through the air, and every time they exploded, gas, powder, earth and cement dust flew into the cellar until the men were nearly suffocated. Finally an explosion blew in the iron door to the cellar, and shortly thereafter the Belgians surrendered, freeing the prisoners.

"On the following morning I went to Namur. In Liege certain streets [illegible] out, but in Namur [illegible] blocks were destroyed. The [illegible] Palace, with its beautiful Rat[illegible] has been blotted out of existence. In its place were heaps of ruins, from which smoke was still coming.

The destruc[illegible] effect of grenades could be [illegible] on many houses. The city was [illegible]out bread. German patrols we[illegible] guarding the bakeries, which were [illegible]ing stormed by the people. B[illegible] clock in the afternoon even the [illegible]t hotels had no provisions of a[illegible] left. Our troops were fed [illegible] the vast quantities of food stor[illegible] the forts. In the city there was [illegible]ortage of everything, especially [illegible]toes and salt.

"In the [illegible]noon we went on to Gambloux, there the famine was still worse. The [illegible]diers declared that they had been [illegible] to get bread or beer for fourteen days."

A Want Ad Will Do It

SAYS SULPHUR IS SURE TO RELIEVE ITCHING ECZEMA

Any breaking out or irritation on the face, arms, legs or body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist.

He informs us that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and soothes and heals the Eczema right up leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of cutaneous disorders because of its parasite-destroying property. Nothing has ever been found to take it's place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.

Those troubled should obtain at any pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded, particularly in itching Eczema, proves very welcome.

CANDIDATES

OF THREE PARTIES MAY APPEAR ON ONE BALLOT, SAYS CALIFORNIA COURT.

Progressives Win Distinct Victory in Litigation Brought to Decide Question.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

San Francisco, Sept. 25.—The legislature "is not bound to make membership in a party a condition of the right to seek the nomination of that party," said the California Supreme court yesterday, in denying an application to prevent the California secretary of state from placing the name of Attorney General U. S. Webb on the Republican and Democratic ballots in November. Attorney General Webb is a Progressive and at the recent primaries he won the nomination of all three parties.

"The selection of candidates of the party is, under the law, committed to those who have declared their affiliation with it," said the court.

"If they, the members of the party, seek to select as their candidate, one affiliated with another party or with no party, that is their privilege. No violation of fundamental rights or of the traditional practice of parties is committed. Before the days of direct primary laws, it was not uncommon for a convention of one party to nominate a member or a candidate of another party and there is no constitutional reason for saying that the same thing may not be done by the direct action of the electors of the party."

The petition was based on the argument that a candidate registered in one party did not have the right to seek the nomination of another party with whose platform he was not in sympathy.

Besides Attorney General Webb, three other Progressive candidates for important state offices won places on the ballots of one or both of the other parties.

NEWARK GIRLS ESCAPE FROM THE WAR ZONE

A telegram received Thursday afternoon by Levi Hirschberg announced the safe arrival in New York of his daughter, Miss Elsa Hirshberg of Newark and Miss Edna Wise, neice of Mrs. Helen Blair of High street. They landed from the ocean liner New York, of the American line. A brief cablegram received a week ago announced that they had sailed. Miss Hirshberg will reach Newark Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from New York.

Miss Wise arrived in Newark at 8 o'clock Friday morning, happy to get home but very much fatigued. The ocean voyage was very rough and unpleasant, the New York being one of the smaller ocean liners. Miss Wise declared that she, with other Americans received only the most courteous treatment at the hands of the Germans.

Both young women were in Germany, Miss Hirsberg to finish her musical education and Miss Wise studying languages. They were in the center of the military activities in Germany and while they suffered no great hardships, they lost no time in seizing the first opportunity to leave.

SPANISH LETTER MOST GRATIFYING TO UNITED STATES

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Sept. 25.—The navy department had before it today a letter which caused officials much gratification. It was from the Spanish ambassador Senor Juan Riano, conveying his thanks and also those of commander Salvador Bulgas, of the Spanish Cruiser Carlos V, for the attention shown that vessel at the Norfolk navy yard recently when the battleship Louisiana was ordered out of drydock to make way for the cruiser in order that she might be scoured preparatory to her homeward voyage. In his letter Senor Riano referred to the docking of the Carlos V as a "new evidence of friendship" between the United States and Spain. The letter was sent to the state department which in turn forwarded it to the navy department.

Belgian Refugees in London Have Plenty, and No Worry, A Novel Experience to Them

(Associated Press Correspondence)

London, Sept. 18.—Every day at 5 o'clock a bell rings in the great exhibition hall of Alexandria palace whereupon 1,500 women, children and old men, with a scattering of young, set up a clatter of wooden shoes. This amusement park is now the largest camp for Belgian refugees in London district, and makes ideal quarters for the homeless foreigners who are being cared for there.

Not many weeks ago the same people were struggling away from their burning villages, some for the Dutch frontier to be herded together in Flushing, and others for Brussels, whence they were sent to Ostend.

As a result, ultimately they found themselves in a London railway station, bewildered by the noise of traffic and the strange language about them. Here they were rounded up by kindly people speaking their language and put into motor busses for the various camps. Attendants at Alexandra palace say the refugees for the first day or two seemed stupified. The break in their narrow, peaceful lives by war and travel overwhelmed them. Then they began to fall into a new way of living.

For many, no doubt, ease amid plenty was a novel experience after years of frugality and hard labor. Now there is nothing to do but to wander in the great halls with their statuary, the remains of a Japanse fair and a bird house, in the wooded park outside, the heights of which command an extensive view of London.

These peasants trained in extremely frugal living, had hitherto managed to do with three meals a day. But, in the refuge camp they found a fourth meal at five o'clock. At first they took their tea as a duty expected of them. Then they found it helped to break a long interval in a monotonous day. Now they clamor for tea. As it is easier to acquire a habit than to break it, they may on their turn fix the tea habit in rural Belgium.

The older Belgians have not yet recovered from the horrors they have passed through. They sit on the benches sad eyed and dumfounded, paying no attention to the children romping about them.

One of the interpreters at the palace says their stories are so harrowing she no longer can bear to hear them. Some of the women have met fresh griefs in the death of their babies from malnutrition and exposure during the days of their flight. The hospital has now about 35 cases on hand which are given the best of care. The children are having the time of their lives, since the play ground with its swings and merry-go-rounds is open to them. Cots have not yet been provided but the rooms have comfortable mattresses and plenty of cover. There is a daily issue of second-hand clothing, which is dealt out rather with a view of finding persons to fill the garments than of finding garments to fit the person.

Every day a group of refugees, with tags giving their destination fastened to a button hole, are taken from the camps and sent to various parts of England where homes have been offered. There are only about 6,000 in the camps, and Secretary H. E. Morgan of the war refugees committee which acts for the government in this matter, says that he has received 60,000 offers of aid from persons in all parts of the United Kingdom and 60,000 offers of homes.

WINDOW TRIM ATTRACTS NOTICE

Mr. Get the Habit A. L. Norton, has a reputation for designing clever window attractions and several of Norton's "window trims" have been reproduced in the Trade Magazines. One of the most effective Mr. Norton has produced to date may be seen during the afternoons and evenings for a few days at his store in the Arcade. The purpose is to advertise a fountain pen and the window held a crowd all afternoon and evening yesterday.

The principal feature of the exhibit is a pretty girl Everybody is wondering who she is Nobody knows. All one sees is the young woman's hands and arms. The hands and arms are beautiful; therefore she must be a pretty girl. Miss ——— is in position to see the crowd watching the window though the crowd can't see her and she has a lot of fun writing names and sentences upon cards while demonstrating the excellence of her fountain pen. An Advocate man took a look into the window last night. Instantly appeared a card declaring that the Advocate is the leading paper of Newark. That girl is not only pretty but she's smart She evidently knows a good newspaper when she sees it.

Theatres

Honey Boy's Minstrels.

With an all new production of scenery, costumes and special feature George Evans' Honey Boy Minstrels will be seen at the Auditorium Theater, Saturday, Sept. 26, matinee and night, headed by the only "Honey Boy," the comedians of the organization are Arthur Rigby, Sam Lee, Leroy "Lasses' White and Will Cawley. The principal vocalists are John P. Rogers, James Meehan, William H. Thompson, Jim Doherty and the little Swiss yodler, Master Paul Van Dyke. There is also a choir of twenty picked singers.

The opening scene or "First Part" is a representation of the Grand Court of Honor at the coming Panama Exposition, at San Francisco. Song features are "Underneath the Watermelon Moon," "Salute the Flag" and the harbor of Vera Cruz, showing the landing of the American sailors and marines and the usual Evans minstrel comedy which this year is titled "The Blackville Bull Fighters." It is in this afterpiece that the "Honey Boy" usually shows to the best advantage as an artistic portrayer of negro roles. As "The Toreador" this year, Evans will be found funnier than ever. The skit with its accompanying musical numbers has been written by Mr. Evans.

"Honey Boy" Evans is making a big hit this year with his talk on the great European war, he has a war map that takes up the entire stage. His comedy work and talk on this subject is very clever, quick and fast and very entertaining.

"Sari" Carries Its Own Orchestra.

The keystone of every production of operetta is the orchestra, a fact which Henry W. Savage never forgets Every musical production that he sends out carries its own orchestra and leader; the music must be played spiritedly and accurately or the effect is lost. If the music is slurred and slighted, the principals and chorus are bad and upset, and a bad performance is given. That is why Mr Savage always sends a carefully trained orchestra and an experienced leader with every musical production he puts out, and why his productions are always eagerly booked and do a big business. "Sari," the sensational operetta success which Mr. Savage offers this attraction at the Auditorium Theater on Tuesday, Oct. 6th.

Auditorium Tonight.

Tonight is the last chance you will have to see "The Rise and Fall of Napoleon." This picture has created a very favorable impression among the people of Newark and a capacity audience attended the performance at the Auditorium last night.

This film depicts the career of Napoleon from his early manhood through his many military triumphs his retreat from Moscow, his defeat at the battle of Waterloo and his exile and death on the lonely Isle of St. Helena in the South Atlantic ocean.

NERV-WORTH DOES GOOD AND GOOD ONLY

World's Greatest Nerve Tonic leaves No Legacy of Evils—Harmless Vegetable Compound.

Some medicines successfully attack certain diseases of the body but are harmful to organs not directly concerned in the disorders needing treatment. Rheumatism medicine, for instance, often plays havoc with the digestive organs. Quinine kills the malarial garm but sets some heads to ringing and often adds permanently to deafness. But Nerv-Worth, a vegetable mixture, does the physical man good and good only. Contains no bromides, narcotics, opiates, no habit forming drugs whatsdever, it leaves no legacy of troubles to a part or an organ already healthy and sound. This suggests one strong reason why Nerv-Worth has had so vast a sale during the few months since it was introduced. Nothing but benefits have been reaped from it by users, and the grateful men and women whose nervous disorders have been banished by the remedy have been able to tell fellow sufferers about its action in terms of unqualified praise.

Thousands of such assurances have been given in this way, many of them in the shape of formal written statements. These have been absolutely convincing to a host of those who have lacked faith. On the strength of such assurances friends and neighbors have bought Nerv-Worth, to become enthusiastic endorsers themselves on reaping the unfailing benefits, whether they were victims of indigestion, sleeplessness, dizziness, trembling, sick and nervous headache, pains in the back, side or chest, stomach or bowel trouble, nervousness, low vitality, little energy that tired feeling or some other form of nervous debility. See Nerv-Worth specialist at the T. J. Evans drug store Take a free sample dose or buy a bottle and try it. Your money back if Nerv-Worth fails to help.

WHEN YOU WERE A LITTLE GIRL

IT WAS but just a little while ago, a very little while, that you were the little girls of this community. To some of us it seems as though it were only a few days back that you who are the mothers of the little girls today were finding in the "plays" your little daughters play now your own little-girl-amusements.

You can remember how you played at keeping house and doing in play the things your mothers did in earnest. You had tea parties and you "called" on each other with your dolls and discussed your dolly ailments. Sometimes to make the play seem more real you put on some old discarded dresses of your mothers and for a few brief hours wore long dresses.

You who can recall all those things so clearly, what are you doing toward helping your own little daughter or favorite child friend to make their play more real by the possession of the Sellers Junior Kitcheneed Special we are giving away in this voting contest?

You know a Kitchen Cabinet is a wonderful convenience for any woman. In this day when so much is required of a woman it is quite a necessity. You are going to have one sometime. Then why not now, and in supplying yourself with a real necessity, bring some child closer to its fondest dream? For if you buy a Sellers Kitcheneed Kitchen Cabinet during this contest and tell us to what contestant you want the credit to go, that child will receive 100 votes toward her total.

And you can buy during this contest at terms that are unusually liberal.

So there is every motive imaginable to induce you to buy your Kitcheneed Kitchen Cabinet at this time. For of course there is no question in your mind but what a Sellers Kitcheneed would be your ultimate choice.

If there should happen to be any question, consider these things for a moment:

COOLING CABINET — Frosted metal perfectly ventilated.
EXTENSION TOP—Can be pulled out to give more space when working. Can be had in either nickeloid or in hard maple wood.
SPACIOUS COMPARTMENT in lower section—equipped with a sliding wire shelf.
WIRE RACK on back of door to this compartment for covers and flat tins.
DRAWERS in lower section for kitchen linen and kitchen utensils, cutlery, etc.
SELLERS AUTOMATIC FLOUR BIN—50 lbs. capacity—has funnel shaped sifter attachment. This bin comes forward automatically to table level for filling purposes and easily swings back into position when filled.
GLASS PANEL indicates constantly amount of flour on hand.
Glassware — SUGAR RECEPTACLE with automatic outlet and graduated measuring cup. SEVEN SPICE JARS, five with snap-on-covers, two perforated for salt and pepper, also GLASS TEA and COFFEE CANISTERS. SNAP-ON COVERS — slight pressure of thumb upwards all that is necessary to operate.
SANITARY ROLLING CURTAIN —instantly disappears, rolls UP and OUT of the way. Keeps dust from provisions stored within cabinet.
ANT-PROOF CASTERS. Strong steel caster, heavily nickel plated. Filling bowl above the caster wheel with water, oil or powdered borax, renders it impossible for ants or other insects to enter cabinet.
SPACIOUS COMPARTMENTS in upper section, one for china, the other for glassware—has white enameled or varnished interiors, frosted glass doors and coppered hinges.
SELLERS KITCHENEEDS made of best quality seasoned and kiln-dried oak, finished oil hand rubbed, with dull coppered hinges and catches.
SELLERS DOVE-TAIL METHOD OF CONSTRUCTION is responsible for the statement that Sellers Kitcheneeds will not warp or separate at the joints or be affected by ever-changing kitchen temperatures.

Ten of these one-vote stamps are good for one ten-vote stamp. Clip them every day

Remember that the time in which this contest runs is limited, so if you want to help that little girl, do so before it is too late.

We offer these Cabinets at their cash value on our special Club terms of $1.00 MEMBERSHIP AND $1.00 WEEKLY PAYMENTS. By buying a Kitchen Cabinet now, you can help some little girl to win the Junior Kitcheneed Special and besides add the greatest possible labor and provision saver to your kitchen.

ROOSEVELT

OUTLINES SQUARELY THE PLATFORM UPON WHICH HE SOLICITS ALL VOTES

Woman's Suffrage, Referendum and Recall are Cardinal Points Cited In Illinois.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Marion, Ill., Sept. 25.—Addressing an audience here today, the second and last of his Illinois campaign in behalf of Raymond Robins, progressive candidate for United States Senator, Col. Roosevelt dwelt on the labor features of the progressive platform, and paid particular attention to advocacy of the initiative, referendum and recall.

Speaking of business conditions he repeated that unbridled competition means monopoly. The efficiency of industrial combinations must be retained, he said, but their evils must be eliminated in a manner fair to all. "Unbridled competition is the father of monopoly," he asserted. Illustrating the relations of the government to business the Colonel referred to a newspaper article he had read.

"It stated," said he, "that it would be no use for American business men to go into the business undertakings for the moment abandoned by the Germans because of the war, for after the war the German government would put itself behind the German business men, exercising a proper control over them, but encouraging them so far as was possible, while the American government would not be behind American business men and would, if anything, be antagonistic to them. We must alter completely this type of attitude if we are to meet on equal terms the trained efficiency of foreign competitors in the great world of business today. The government must assume an attitude of hearty encouragement and co-operation as far as all legitimate business big or little, is concerned. But it must accompany this attitude with rigid insistence upon the rights of the wage worker for his full share in the benefit that comes from successful business."

The speaker said that the Republican party fulfils Victor Kugo's definition of reaction as a boat rowing up stream and unaware that the stream is steadily carrying it down with the current. He declared that it is because of the existence of the Progressive party that Woman-Suffrage exists in Illinois and this he said will do more to solve the problem of the modern city than anything else that could be devised. He continued:

"We Progressives are trying to give to the plain men and plain women of the nation the power to run their own government. That is why we are trying to secure the initiative the referendum and recall."

Colonel Roosevelt outlined a part of the Progressive program as follows:

"Effective legislation looking to the prevention of industrial accidents, occupational diseases, overwork, involuntary employment, and other injurious effects incident to modern industry;

"The fixing of minimum safety and health standards for the various occupations, and the exercise of the public authority of State and Nation, including the federal control over interstate commerce and taxing power to maintain such standards;

"The prohibition of child labor;

"Minimum wage standard for working women, to provide a living scale in all industrial occupations;

"The prohibition of night work for women and the establishment of an eight-hour day for women and young persons;

"One day's rest in seven for all wage-workers;

"The eight-hour day in continuous twenty-four industries;

"The abolition of the convict contract labor system; substituting a system of prison production for governmental consumption only; and the application of prisoner's earnings to the support of the dependent families;

"Publicity as to wages, hours and conditions of labor; full reports upon industrial accidents and diseases, and the opening to public inspection of all tallies, weights, measures and check systems on labor products;

"Standard of compensation for death by industrial accidents and injury and trade diseases which will transfer the burden of lost earning from the families of working people to the industry and thus to the community.

"The protection of home life against the hazards of sickness, irregular employment and old age through the adoption of a system of social insurance adapted to American use;

"The development of the creative labor power of America by lifting the last load of illiteracy from American youth and establishing continuation schools for industrial education under public control and en-couraging agricultural education and demonstration in rural schools;

"The establishment of industrial research laboratories to put the methods and discoveries of science at the service of American producers;

"The organization of the workers, men and women, as a menas of protecting their interests and of promoting their progress."

Continuing he said:

"Bit by bit we are battering the various means to achieve these ends through hostile legislation. In the end we shall accomplish all we have thus outlined, and then we shall go on and accomplish much more along the same general lines."

INSURANCE RATES HAVE ADVANCED BECAUSE OF WAR

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

New York, Sept. 25.—Marine underwriters, because of the activity of the German commerce destroyers along the coast of India, have raised insurance rates to India and the Far East to five per cent. again. For a time they were quoted as low as 2 1-2 per cent. although at the beginning of the war some companies charged fifteen to twenty per cent. for the war risk. The rate to South American ports has likewise been advanced to three per cent., where in most cases it has been only two per cent. or less.

ITCHING IRRITATION

Worst Form of Skin Trouble Quickly Relieved by Inexpensive Treatment.

When you suffer with any skin trouble even though the itching seems unbearable, do not think that it is necessary to use some disgusting, greasy ointment. Try Hokara, a pure and simple cream, that is guaranteed to contain no grease or acids and which is so cleanly that it does not soil the linen.

Its power to instantly relieve any irritation of the skin and make it soft, white and beautiful is almost miraculous.

Not only do minor skin troubles like pimples, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., quickly disappear, but the worst ulcers or cases of salt rheum or eczema are cleansed and healed by this wonderful skin food.

In order that any one may try Hokara at small expense, Evans Drug store is selling a liberal-sized jar at 25c, and in addition guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not do all that is claimed for it.

Poisoners of Rome.

Tofana, the Italian woman poisoner of the seventeenth century, was carrying on a tradition of ancient Rome. In 331 B. C. a supposed pestilence swept the city, and many leading men were carried off. Then a slave girl gave information, and the authorities surprised twenty Roman matrons preparing drugs over a fire. Since they insisted that the drugs were not poisonous they were compelled to drink them in the Forum, and all perished. Further information having been laid, 170 matrons were condemned. In 184 B. C. a four months' inquiry by the praetor resulted in the condemnation of 2,000 persons for poisoning. There were many similar scandals, but it will always remain doubtful whether in any particular one of these ancient cases the epidemic was not really natural.—London Spectator.

Gladstone's Quick Temper.

A story is told of an encounter between Queen Victoria and Mr. Gladstone.

Mr. Gladstone in an audience with the queen one day produced a list of people whom he wished to be made peers. The queen demurred and said, "I cannot create as many as this, Mr. Gladstone."

Whereupon Mr. Gladstone, who sometimes got into a temper, tore the list up. The queen flushed slightly, but said nothing to Mr. Gladstone, who shortly afterward quitted the royal presence.

Some short time later Mr. Gladstone presented a new list, much shorter than on the previous occasion.

The queen, without looking at it, tore it up. It was then Mr. Gladstone's turn to flush.—New York Sun.

WEATHER

HAS CHANGED, AND RETARDS MODERN MILITARY OPERATIONS ON BIG SCALE

Pitiless Rain Drenches Troops, and Dread Cholera has Broken Out Among Them.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

London, Sept. 25.—10:15 a. m.—The weather conditions, which were exceptionally favorable to modern military operations during the first six weeks of the war, have now changed radically and are in the main responsible for the lull prevailing in all the war areas, with the exception of the combined Montenegrin and Servian assault on the coveted provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Accompanying the reports of bad weather comes the ominous news of the presence of disease. Hungary has acknowledged an outbreak of cholera among her troops, and while it is denied officially the same scourge is said to have attacked the Servian troops. General epidemics of milder diseases may be expected in the western battle area where the troops on both sides, drenched by a pitiless rain, are lying in flooded trenches.

The operations in Alsace Lorraine are said to have come to complete stop on account of snowstorms. Rain and floods are reported also from the scene of the Galician operations, and probably account for the cessation of the Russian attack on the retreating Austrians.

Storm conditions will interfere greatly with motor transportation and troops taking the offensive may be greatly handicapped by inability to bring up their artillery.

Several of the great German siege guns, probably destined for use against the fortifications of Paris, have fallen into the hands of the enemy, having become stuck in the mud when the Germans began their retirement from the Marne.

The French are now digging this artillery out but the same case which led to their abandonment may prevent the allies turning them on their former owners.

The latest official communication from Paris was even more laconic than usual. It said that the battle was developing on the left wing of the allies, that here was a lull in the center and that the attacks on the allies right had been repulsed.

Petrograd reports that Russian troops in pursuit of the Austrians are now within one march of the river Vistula and the city of Tarnow, which is only two marches from Cracow, and connected by rail with Budapest and Vienna.

Copenhagen reports a great battle in east Prussia, the dispatches declaring also that a Russian army is marching on Breslau.

Dispatches from Nish, Servia, report a continuous advance into Bosnia, saying also that all the efforts of the Austrians to cross the river Danube have been checked after furious fighting.

The exploits in Indian waters of the German cruiser Emden, which have been likened to the operations of the Alabama during the civil war, have aroused keen interest here. But the daring onslaught of this vessel on Madras which occurred Tuesday morning is believed to indicate that she prepared for spectacular exit from the scene of her triumphs.

In the diplomatic field the pressure on Italy to join the cause of the triple entente increases daily. The allies point out that in case of their victory Servia must be given a port on the Adriatic and the Bait of Avlona of which port Italy long cast hungry eyes, is bing held before the Servian government as a possible reward, particularly if Italy fails to join the allies.

Germany is reported to have requested Switzerland's permission to send forces through that country. This was refused and in case Germany moves forcibly to this end. Italy is said to be prepared to defend Swiss neutrality.

Dust Won't Mar Complexion

IN MY long experience as a practicing beauty specialist, I found dry and dusty weather would ruin any complexion, if a harsh and dry condition of the skin was permitted to continue.

Fine and tiny particles of dust enter the pores, defying soap and water. The face becomes rough, hard and discolored.

My Turkish Bath Oil was originated and perfected for the special purpose of completely removing every trace of dust and grime from the skin, leaving it clear, soft, fair, moist and flexible.

It is quickly and easily used; just dab a bit on the face and rub dry with a soft cloth. You need not even rinse the face afterward; it will be thoroughly cleansed.

48th NATIONAL SUFFRAGE MEET IN NASHVILLE

A call has been issued for the 46th annual National Suffrage convention, to be held Nov. 12 to 17, inclusive, at Nashville, Tenn., by invitation of the Tennessee Equal Suffrage league. The summons is being sent to the 60 member associations to meet together for inspiration and counsel, and is signed by the general officers of the N. A. W. S. A. It will be in many respects the most important convention in the history of the National association. Plans must be made for winning the enfranchisement of the women of the whole country in the speediest, most practicable manner possible. The following is part of the call being sent out:

"Let us, then, in convention assembled, kindle with the thought that, as we consider methods for the political enfranchisement of our sex, our wider purpose is to free women and to enable woman's conception of life in all its aspect to find expression. Then woman's horror of war and of all needless misery, woman's care for and wise stress upon the needs of the child will become operative. Let us set a fresh seal upon the great new loyalty of women to women; let our response be felt in the deep tide of fellowship and understanding between all women which today is rising round the world."

BELGIAN APPEAL MADE FOR FUNDS FOR DESTITUTE

J. P. Morgan & Co., 23 Wall street, New York City, are acting as depository of a special fund that is being raised by American citizens acting with the Belgium consul general and others for the relief of the non-combatants of Belgium.

Prosperous Belgian cities have been practically destroyed. Belgian industries have been paralized and hundreds if not thousands of wage earners killed and many thousand homes have been obliterated. The appeal quotes an eye witness, the wife of the present minister of state of Belgium who in an address to the women of America said:

"Seven out of the nine provinces that go to make the Kingdom of Belgium have been devastated by the most dreadful war known to history. The peaceful countryside is strewn with dead and dying. Thousands and thousands of people have nothing in the world left, not a roof over their heads, no money, no clothes, and no chance of earning a living of any sort.

"The sight of the poor refugees streaming into Antwerp from Louvain and Malines, women with babies in their arms, their older children clinging to their skirts, men wheeling their decrepit fathers in wheel barrows or helping along a crippled brother or son, is more pitiable than any words can express."

Secretary Daniels in Favor Of Internal Canals as Defense, To be Secondary but Important

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 25.—What the proposed great inland waterways from Massachusetts Bay to the Rio Grande would mean to the nation in time of war was discussed here today by Secretary Daniels, of the navy department before the convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association.

"Not only will this waterway lend itself tremendously to the development of internal commerce and tend to bring down the rates of transportation," said Mr. Daniels, "but it also provides unusual facilities for self-defense in time of war. In any conflict between nations which have navies, the all important consideration is to secure, if possible, immediate control of the sea, and the power which possesses the superior navy is usually able to do this. In such case the navy of the weaker power takes refuge in some deep and well-defended harbor where it seeks to wear out its enemy by fighting it in detachment and in other ways wearing down its strength. After this weaker power, having thus taken refuge in a safe harbor, can maneuver its ships through inland channels to other exits, it enjoys a greater advantage.

"The submarine has long been considered a source of great effectiveness and even the submarines alone of the navy could have free movement through an inland waterway. The power whose navy was bottled up would be in a position to make a longer defense until it could bring into play the resources of its country. It would be able to slip out at various exits and do damage to its enemy. If the ships of the inferior power were damaged in a general engagement, they could utilize an inland waterway to distribute themselves among various shipyards for repairs all the quicker. The whole nature of a war would be greatly affected by available inland canals.

"Even in times of peace the canal is a very important factor to the navy and lends itself to preparation for national security. Large quantities of heavy materials are constantly requested by the government for its navy yards, and on these the transportation charges by the waterway would be more than cut in half."

Wednesday night, in spite of the rain which made it quite unpleasant to be out, the North Newark Christian Union chapel was fairly well filled with eager, earnest listeners to the excellent sermon preached by Miss Lillian Dillin, of Coshocton. Miss Dillin is a forceful speaker, and carries her audience with her in the conviction that she understands what she reads and interprets, and impresses them with the fact of her own conviction of the truthfulness of what she says.

Enormous Zeppelin Threw Bombs Thursday.

Ostend, via London, Sept. 25.—A Zeppelin airship coming from the direction of Thourout (12 miles southwest of Bruges, Belgium,) dropped three bombs yesterday. One struck the avenue P. de Smet de Nayer bridge, on the outskirts of the town, another fell in the harbor, and another on the premises of a wholesale fish dealer in the fish market, partly wrecking the building. The explosion here made a great cavity in the ground and badly damaged all surrounding houses, extinguished street lamps, destroyed electric wires and created a panic. The Zeppelin returned in the direction of Thielt, 12 miles northeast of Courtrai. The photograph is one of the airships named for the Kaiser's daughter.

WORTH REMEMBERING

When a Boston fern begins to droop feed it cottonseed meal. It is the best fertilizer there is.

Marble should be washed with ammonia and water rather than soap.

Charcoal is a capital disinfectant. Keep a dish of it in the larder, and the food kept there will not quickly taint.

Put old lard into a basin and pour boiling water over it. Allow it to get cold, then pour off the water and repeat the process three times. The lard can then be used for making cold cream.

HEADACHE STOPS, NEURALGIA GONE

Nerve-racking, splitting or dull throbbing headaches yield in just a few moments to Dr. James' Headache Powders which cost only 10 cents a package at any drug store. It's the quickest, surest headache relief in the whole world. Don't suffer! Relieve the agony and distress now! You can. Millions of men and women have found that headache or neuralgia misery is needless. Get what you ask for.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant. BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts before Breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid on stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

FIGHT LASTED SEVEN DAYS ON VISTULA RIVER

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Paris, Sept. 25.—Telegraphing from Petrograd, the correspondent of the Havas news agency says that among the engagements preceding the capture of Jareslau by the Russians that Sadova on the Vistula river was the most important.

This fight lasted seven days without interruption. The Austrians were entrenched on the summits of some wooded hills rising from a broad and unsheltered plain. The Rusians were forced to charge across this open plain against a raking machine gun fire. Their losses were tremendous and they were repulsed many times until finally their guns found the range; then their charge was successful.

CONGRATULATIONS ON SON'S DEATH.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Biarritz, France, Sept. 25.—via Bordeaux, Sept. 25.—11:35 p. m.—Dr. De Lostalot, a local physician who has in the past been consulted by King Alfonso of Spain, has received from his majesty a telegram expressing sympathy on the death of a son in battle. The message dated at the royal palace, Madrid reads as follows:

"I have just learned of the loss of your son. The finest death a man can have is falling for his country. I congratulate you, but at the same time I feel deeply for your father's heart."

SICK DOCTOR

Proper Food Put Him Right.

The food experience of a physician in his own case worn and weak from sickness and when needing nourishment the worst way, is valuable:

"An attack of grip, so severe it came near making an end of me, left my stomach in such condition I could not retain any ordinary food. I knew of course that I must have food nourishment or I could never recover.

"I began to take four teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and cream three times a day and for 2 weeks this was almost my only food. It tasted so delicious that I enjoyed it immensely and my stomach handled it perfectly from the first mouthful. It was so nourishing I was quickly built back to normal health and strength.

"Grape-Nuts is of a great value as food to sustain life during serious attacks in which the stomach is so deranged it cannot digest and assimilate other foods.

"I am convinced that were Grape-Nuts more widely used by physicians, it would save many lives that are otherwise lost from lack of nourishment." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Dufferin's Odd Right Eye.

Sir Thomas Barclay in "Thirty Years Anglo-French Reminiscences" tells how Lord Lytton once asked Lord Dufferin what he thought was the source of his success in conducting intercourse with eastern princes. "My glass eye," said he. "When I had anything serious to negotiate I fixed them with the glass eye and watched them with the other." He may, of course, have meant his monocle, adds Sir Thomas, who also describes the effect of Lord Dufferin's odd right eye upon himself:

"When he spoke to you he dropped his monocle and fixed you with a steady gaze which made you feel as if you were giving yourself away to one whom no human sympathy would move. When you had finished what you were saying he would go on watching you with the same steadiness as if he were listening now to what you were thinking. You would wabble on the thin planks on to which in your confusion you had stepped, and then in the uncomfortable silence you would say something you did not intend, and Dufferin seemed to be waiting for that."

Fallers Called Mental Defectives.

According to a Brooklyn physician, most accidents, as well as divorces and crimes, are in reality due to defective mentality. When a person gets caught in a maze of traffic and does not know whether it is better to go backward or forward he is, according to this doctor, a target for everything coming his way.

The indecision or lack of judgment leads to frequent accidents with the same individual. Of 112 persons who were questioned in four semiprivate hospitals forty-six had had previous accidents and thirty-two more than one such accident. Out of about 50,000 examinations of defectives there was scarcely a case that did not show many scars. Inquiry among eight automobile owners showed that the opinion commonly held of reckless chauffeurs among their fellows was that the reckless ones were not quite normal, or, as they phrased it, were "crazy."—New York World.

The World's Strangest University.

Founded in the year 972 A. D., the Mohammedan university of El-Azhar ("The Luminous") is one of the oldest existing and strangest universities in the world.

El-Azhar is the Oxford of the Moslem world and is at present attended by upward of 10,000 students of all ages and from every eastern country from the Caucasus to Somaliland. Board and lodging is free. The teaching consists chiefly of Mohammedan dogma, which is laboriously committed to memory from sacred books.

The students squat in groups on the floor of the immense building with their boots—which have to be taken off on entering—and their daily rations beside them and accompany the droning repetition of their lessons with a rhythmic swaying of the body. Writing is done on tin slates.

Girls are allowed to attend the lectures, but only as listeners; they may not speak.

Eaten the Canary.

An Italian street peddler was making mechanical canaries warble and carol when a coal wagon lumbered by driven by an old darky. The driver heard the song and, pursing up his lips, imitated it perfectly. Amazed, the peddler walked across the street and regarded the old man long and hard.

"Yu needn't be lookin' fo' dat bird," Uncle Andy assured him, "'case Ah'se done swallowed him. Ah'se done kep' him down dar fo' twenty year an' Ah ain't gwine let him go now!"

And a crowd gathered, as is customary in New York.—New York Post.

The Last Word.

"By gosh," a henpecked husband said, "I hear some chaps kicking because their wives always have the last word. Now, for my part, to give my wife the last word never bothers me a bit."

"It doesn't?"

"No, on the contrary. I always feel thankful when she gets to it."—Exchange.

The Screech Owl.

The screech owl feeds on small mammals, birds, reptiles, fish, spiders, crawfish, scorpions, earthworms, grasshoppers, crickets, ground dwelling beetles and caterpillars. Screech owls should be encouraged to stay near barns and outhouses, as they will keep in check house and wood mice.

Bulgarian Wives.

The wife of a Bulgarian rarely goes out without her husband, does not receive callers in her husband's absence, seldom appears in a restaurant, a cafe or a place of public amusement and never goes to any such place unless her husband accompanies her.—London Telegraph.

Just Like a Man.

"I don't understand George," said the bride.

"How so?"

"He told me to sweeten his coffee with a smile, which I did. And then he went and put in two lumps of sugar, anyhow."—Pittsburgh Post.

Wide Awake.

Fuddle—You know Stocks, don't you? Doctor—Yes, indeed. He is now a patient of mine. Fuddle—Pretty wide awake man, isn't he? Doctor—I should say so. I'm treating him for insomnia.

Dogs For Draft Work.

The use of dogs for draft work was prohibited in London in 1839, but remained legal in the provinces for another fifteen years. Sir Walter Gilbey, in his "Recollections of Seventy Years," notes as a feature of his boyhood at Bishop Stortford the numbers of dog carriages and carts on the Essex lanes and highroads. "All sorts and conditions of men used dog carriages, from small tradesmen to poorer people who could not afford a pony. Dog draft was abolished because certain people agitated against it as cruel, but I think that generally the dogs were neither ill treated nor overworked. There are probably many people living who can remember when the tugging propensity of the dog was utilized in England. Workingmen had their 'dogcarts,' in which they made Sunday and holiday excursions. The dogs employed were, as a rule, heavy half bred bull mastiffs with a touch of the lurcher in them. They thought nothing of drawing their masters fifty or sixty miles in a day."—London Sphere.

Do You Suffer From Tired Eyes?

If you suffer from tired eyes—and who does not at times?—you may be glad to try a French author's accidentally discovered remedy. It is a simple method of restoring the vision to freshness. One night when engaged in writing an article his eyes gave out before he could finish and he was compelled to stop. So, turning from his unfinished manuscript, his eyes fell upon some scraps of colored silk that his wife had been using for patchwork. These gay colors had a peculiar attraction for wearied optics. On resuming his work after gazing at them for several minutes he found them quite fresh. After several experiments he surrounded his inkstand with brilliantly colored striped silk material that his eyes must rest on every time he dips his pen into the ink. This brings instant relief.

How Perfectly French!

There is a prefect in the south of France who has a mania for his wife's hands, which are particularly beautiful. So that he may always have the object of his adoration under his eyes a model in bronze of one of the hands has been made and the prefect keeps it on his desk at his office.

An official in this prefect's district, anxious to secure his influence for political preferment, has devised a delightful way of paying him a delicate compliment. Every time he enters the great man's office he walks silently to his desk, takes up the bronze hand and kisses it respectfully.

The prefect is so much impressed by this act of gallantry that the tactful young man has already secured lucrative promotion.—London Mirror.

Rice Throwing at Weddings.

The origin of rice throwing at weddings is accounted for by a quaint Chinese legend. A great sorcerer, Chao, became jealous of another sorcerer, a woman, Peach Blossom, and thereby conceived a plan to destroy her. He persuaded her parent to give her in marriage to his supposed son and craftily chose the most unlucky day for the wedding—the day when the "golden pheasant" was in the ascendant—so that when when the bride entered the red chair the spirit bird would kill her with its beak. Peach Blossom, however, prudently gave directions for rice to be scattered at the door, and thus she passed out unscathed, while the spirit bird was busy eating the meal she had provided for it.

To Set a Razor.

When a razor begins to "pull" and drag the hair instead of cutting it there is no need to send it to the barber to be set. There is a perfectly simple method by which any one can put it in trim. All that is necessary is to turn an ordinary sharp table knife edge upward and lay the razor flat on the edge of the knife. Then draw the razor along downward, pressing lightly all the while from heel to toe, as in stropping, turning and repeating the operation half a dozen times. If the razor is then stropped the keenness of its edge will be surprising.—Pearson's Weekly.

Gigantic Gas Tank.

The largest of the many huge gas holders in existence is one completed in 1910 for the Newtown Gas company, borough of Queens, New York city. The holder is 251 feet in diameter and 275 feet high. Such is the height of this vast cylinder that it is a familiar landmark for many miles around New York city.

"Well, papa," replied the little girl, "I'll walk if you'll carry me."—London Standard.

"I'm cleaning its hands, madam."

Chicago Grain.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Wheat prices continued to fall today, bearish sentiment being emphasized by lower quotations from Liverpool, where stocks were said to be liberal and were expected to be increased by increasing shipments, notably from Canada and Argentina. The downturn here was interrupted by a rally due to shorts taking profits, but the effect failed to last. After opening ⅛ to ⅞ off, the market rose to slightly above last night's level, but then sank lower than before. Rumors of export sales had a steadying influence on corn. Besides country offerings were light. The opening which ranged from ½ decline to ½ advance, was followed by a little all around gain.

Oats like corn responded to talk of foreign demand. As in the case of corn, rural holders seemed reluctant to sell.

Provisions recovered when feeding grain showed evidence of strength. At first, attention had been given mainly to a setback in the value of hogs.

WAR TAX BILL BEING DEBATED IN THE HOUSE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Sept. 25.—Debate on the war revenue bill proceeded today in both branches of congress.

In the house while the measure was up for passage under a special rule barring amendments and limiting debate, Republican Leader Mann led the fight upon it with a speech in which he characterized it as unnecessary, charged that a demand for more taxation was hysterical and that the administration was "excited." He contended the government would not be embarrassed with "proper economy." He attributed the condition of the treasury to Democratic tariff legislation.

In the senate the finance committee continued work on the bill and in the chamber, Senator Smoot made a speech on the effect of the sugar rates of the new tariff upon the beet sugar industry. The home industry with proper protection, he contended, would supply the domestic demand and deliver consumers from war prices.

WIRELESS

STATION AT SIASCONSETT SUSPENDS OPERATIONS THIS AFTERNOON.

Declined to Assure Government That it Would Observe Neutrality Rules.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Nantucket, Mass., Sept. 25.—The Siasconsett station of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company, which was ordered closed by Secretary of the Navy Daniels yesterday, because the company declined to assure the government that it would abide by navy neutrality regulations, suspended operations at 1 p. m. today.

There were no formalities when the station was closed, nor was there friction between the station attaches and Ensign Nixon of the navy, who has been acting as censor and who was instructed to enforce the order for suspension. Ensign Nixon, it is expected, will remain at Siasconsett.

Two of the operators will be transferred at once to the company's wireless plant at South Wellfleet at Cape Cod, where all business hitherto handled at Siasconsett will be taken care of as long as the government's ban is effective.

The local manager and one operator will continue on duty at Siasconsett.

PRESIDENT HAS APPROVED ACT OF BOYS' NEUTRALITY

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Sept. 25.—A letter conveying the appreciation of President Wilson to the Rocky Boy Indians, a roving band in Montana, for their offer to remain "neutral" during the European war, as a result of Secretary Lane's efforts to secure some land for them, was on its way to the Indians today from the Secy. of the Interior. Mr. Lane has written Pres. Wilson advising him of the neutrality promise of the Indians and the President in his reply to the secretary asking that his appreciation be conveyed to the tribe, wrote that there was "something very touching" in the offer of the Indians.

The Courts

Answer Filed.

The Licking County Bank and Trust Company has filed an answer to the amended petition of the plaintiff in the case of the City of Newark vs. The Licking County Bank and Trust Company, in which the defendant admits certain allegations of the plaintiff in an endeavor to recover interest on amounts of $60,000 and $15,000 on deposit with the bank. The defendant denies however that the amounts were deposited with the bank under an agreement for the payment of interest.

The county commissioners have contracted with the Ohio Light & Power Company for the installation of new electric lamps for the court room and the court room dome. The lamps were badly needed as the old ones had served their usefulness and had become so dim that they would scarcely give any light.

HALF OF NEW ADDITION WAS SOLD THURSDAY

People who attended the public sale of lots in the new Madison Heights addition were able to buy some very desirable lots at reasonable prices and many took advantage of the opportunity, according to announcement made Friday of the result of the sale. The addition was opened up and placed on the market for the Newark Suburb Realty company. About half the lots in the addition were sold and while the prices were not as high as the promoters had expected, the results were highly gratifying.

"We have some very desirable lots left," said I. M. Phillips for the company. "Those who made purchases seemed well pleased with their bargains and spoke in highest terms of the manner in which the sale was conducted."

Burton Brothers Realty company had charge of the sale and their method of transacting business was highly pleasing according to several of the purchasers.

Announcement was also made that the Newark company expects to have Messrs. Burton return to Newark next spring, when another new addition is placed on the market.

Perpetual Motion.
A discovery which seems to be the equivalent of perpetual motion was described by Professor Whitehead at a meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. He declared that by subjecting a closed coil of lead wire to practically absolute zero temperature, and starting a flow of electricity therein by some external means, Professor Kamerlingh Onnes of Leyden, Germany, succeeded in maintaining a continuous current without the expenditure of energy. To obtain the extremely low temperature necessary to make the experiment a success the coil was immersed in liquid helium. The current was started in the wire by magnetic induction, the flow of electricity persisting, it is declared, for four and one-half hours after the magnetic influence was removed. It was stated that if the experiment had not been terminated when it was the current would probably have continued to flow indefinitely.—Electrical World.

Boots and a Bishop.
The bishop of Yukon says that on one of his longest journeys he and his companions were reduced to eating their sealskin coats. They set out to visit the Eskimos along the Arctic coast and, having accomplished this stage of the journey, hoped to cross the great divide over the Rocky mountains in order to reach Dawson City. The sickness of an Indian guide delayed them, the winter set in earlier than usual, and the travelers had to pass through a region which offered scarcely any game for food. When they began to eat their sealskin boots they had less than two pounds of flour, a little bacon and a handful of rice. The boots they toasted, and the bishop remarked that they found them palatable enough. When they came to eat the tops of the boots the bishop recorded the fact that they were "not as good as the soles."—New York Journal.

Dogs of War.
Dogs have gone to the wars from the earliest times. They barked at the siege of Troy. In those early days, however, they were used as sentinels and for purposes of defense. In the middle ages they attacked. The tracking mission of the Scottish bloodhound has been noted, but the dogs were also used to attack cavalry. For this duty they were clothed in coats of mail studded with spikes and scythes to confuse the horses. And when firebrands were also attached to the mail the opposing camp looked for fire extinguishers. That these dogs played no mean part in the field is proved by the fact that Henry VIII. offered the Spanish king, Charles V., 40,000 auxiliaries and 4,000 war dogs to help him against Francis I.—London Chronicle.

Criminals Used a Textbook.
The late Sir Howard Vincent, M. P., when head of the criminal investigation department of Scotland Yard, wrote a very comprehensive book for the benefit of young constables. It told them how to act on every possible occasion, from capturing a burglar to consoling a lost child. But, unfortunately, the information it contained as to police methods was equally valuable to criminals, who profited by its tips to such an extent that the book was suppressed, and thenceforth constables were instructed by word of mouth.—London Express.

The Ideal Husband.
"Yes, I may say I have an ideal husband."
"An Apollo for looks, a Chesterfield for manners," rhapsodized the girl.
"Those things don't count in husbands, my dear Mine stays fairly sober and brings most of his salary home."—Pittsburgh Post.

EDUCATION FOR RURAL PUPILS

Made Possible Under Ohio's New School Code.

LESS COST TO THE SCHOLAR

Designed to Take High School to the Pupils Who Can Not Go to High School, It Corrects Mistake of the Patterson-Boxwell Idea and Gives All the Boys and Girls a Chance.

Local school officials in every subdivision of the state are beginning to realize what the new school code means to the pupils of Ohio. Designed to give the boy and the girl in the country the same advantages as the boy and the girl in the city, it is working out beautifully. Not only does it eliminate the old injustice possible under the Boxwell and Patterson laws, but it shows an actual saving in cost per pupil of the state.

One of the clearest explanations of the work of the law was printed recently in the Caldwell Press. What applies in Noble is true in every county of the state. The press says:

Better Educational Advantages.

"Statisticians tell us that out of every hundred pupils that enter our schools, the country over, but seven of them ever get into the high school. And further, that of this seven but three ever get to college. Astounding statement! But a fact. It then follows that whatever education we are going to give the great masses of our people—the 93 per cent of our rising generation—must be given them in some manner other than our present school system. If the pupils can not get to the high school, then we must take the high school to the pupils. That's exactly what the new school law is designed to do. The education one gets in the elementary grades is not sufficient to equip Americans for the battle of life in this strenuous age. It therefore becomes imperative that we get better educational advantages to the pupil instead of trying to get the pupil to the better educational advantages. Can it be done? Yes, there is no doubt of that. Will it cost more? No. It will cost less. The proof of that lies in the fact that towns and cities give their children the advantage of a first grade high school education at less cost per scholar than it costs in the country schools.

"There is no room for difference of opinion on this question. It can be, and has been figured out to a mathematical certainty. If it can be done in towns and cities it can be done in the country just as well.

"How will it work out in Noble? Just exactly the way the people of Noble want it to work out. Get that. Cost of superintendents figured in, too? Yes. Here's how: Our county superintendent gets $1,800. The four district superintendents get $1,200, $1,200, $1,000, $1,200, or $4,700. Add $1,800 and we have $6,500, of which the state pays half, leaving $3,250 to pay for superintending. Divide that by fifteen townships and the share of this expense to each would be about $216.66.

"For every school district abandoned, on account of too small an average daily attendance, or from any other cause, after providing for transportation of children residing too far away and paying the township's share of supervision expenses, you can figure a net saving, per school abandoned, of about $250. So that the new school law is not only going to take a first grade school to the pupil, but is going to do it for less money than the present school costs. Do a little figuring on this data.

"Wayne township has abandoned three districts and so arranged it that not a child has to be transported to school. Seneca has abandoned two, Buffalo one, Jefferson one, Beaver one, up to date. It is safe to say that they will average one school abandoned to each township, at a net gain in cost of at least $250 per school, or $3,750 net saving, after paying for superintendents.

"The office of clerk of the county board of examiners is done away with and the county superintendent does that work at a further saving of $350.

"The county superintendent and district superintendents are required to teach in the summer training schools for teachers free, and teachers can attend that school tuition free.

"So the new school law stands to save Noble county at least $4,000 and give us immeasurably better schools."

Consolidated Schools.

A pertinent editorial on the subject of "The Rural School" appeared recently in the Saturday Evening Post. This editorial said:

"Among many reasons for leaving the farm education is by no means the least. There may be a romantic suggestion in the little red or white schoolhouse beside the country road. Formerly we used to boast of those little schoolhouses, and consider that community in which they were most numerous as the most advanced educationally. But to those who know, the little country schoolhouse nowadays is a sign that the community is backward. This little ungraded country schools are on the whole our most inefficient machine for teaching. Progress is in the direction of the consolidated school—which means a school building as well equipped and as well manned as that to be found in town, with conveyances to fetch the children thither in the morning and carry them home again in the afternoon. There are over two thousand of these consolidated rural schools in the United States, and the number grows. In a well settled state they are a matter merely of some gumption and passable roads. The whole idea is that in a rural district, say six miles square, one good school is much better than six poor ones. Experience shows that the cost is usually not much greater and often less.

"Schooling for children that is at least up to a town standard is something every farmer might reasonably demand, and schooling he can have in every well settled region if he will only insist upon it. Thrift and stinginess are the only excuses for the little ungraded country school.

"It will be noted that an authority so eminent as the editor of the Saturday Evening Post puts good schools and good roads on the same list. That is just what has been done in Ohio, and just what will be maintained under the present order. A slap at the state highway department is also a slap at good schools. Neither the schools nor roads should be allowed to be used for political expediency.

CITY TAX RATE REMAINS SAME AS LAST YEAR

The Budget commission consisting of County Auditor Jesse Hursey, Prosecuting Attorney J. Howard Jones and Mayor R. C. Bigbee met Friday morning and practically finished the schedule for the tax rate sheet. Just one or two little items remain to be decided upon and this will be done Saturday after which the clerk of the board, C. L. V. Holtz, will prepare the rate sheet.

The rate for Newark will be 13 mills as first agreed upon some days ago. The first figures presented would have called for a rate of at least 14 1-2 mills and it was necessary to trim several of the funds. This was a very hard matter to do as in all instances it practically was necessary to grant the demand on account of the increased expenses of the city. However, the commission trimmed a little from several funds and was able to make the rate 13 mills, the same as last year, but the big increase in the duplicate under the Warnes law, will give the municipality more money than last year.

FORMER NEWARK BOY RECEIVES APPOINTMENT

Benj. E. Evans, a son of the late J. W. Evans formerly residing in Moull street, this city, has been appointed an agent of the department of agriculture in the state of Florida. Mr. Evans is a former Newark High school student and left here about five years ago entering an agricultural college at Auburn, Ala., where he graduated last June. The following letter from C. K. McQuarrie, state agent of the department of agriculture and bureau of plant industry at Gainesville, Ga., to an official at Kissimmee, Fla., will be of interest to Mr. Evans' many local friends:

"I have appointed as county demonstration agent for Osceola county a Mr. B. E. Evans, whom I hope you will all help as far as you possibly can to make his work a success in your county. His appointment dated from the first of the month, but he has been here attending the agents' summer school. He will likely reach Kissimmee about Saturday or the first of next week.

"Mr. Evans is a young man, well equipped for his work. He is a graduate of Auburn Agricultural College, Ala., and has a B. Sc. and M. Sc. degree in agriculture. He has had considerable experience in outdoor work since graduating from college. He is well posted in horticulture and at one time served for several months as state inspector of nurseries. He has also had considerable experience in planting and tending to orange groves, and had charge of planting, at one time, of a 1,500 acre orange grove in southern Alabama.

"I think you will find Mr. Evans quite a capable young man and if it were possible for your people to get together and subscribe for a conveyance, such as a run-about car, I believe the money would be well invested."

Mr. Evans' mother, Mrs. J. W. Evans of Kissimmee, Fla., is visiting at present in this city but will return in the course of a few days to her southern home.

Help the Stomach Digest Your Food

When the stomach fails to digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and decay that ferments and generates poisons that are gradually forced into the blood, causing distress and often serious illness.

Most people naturally object to the drastic cathartic and purgative agents that shock the system. A mild, gentle laxative, positive in its effect that will quickly relieve constipation is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup of Pepsin, sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. It does not gripe or cramp, but acts easily and pleasantly and is therefore the most satisfactory remedy for children, women and elderly persons. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 451 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

SECOND RUN OF FILMS ARE BOOKED HERE

Manager Abe Thomas of the Grand theatre is one of the live wires in the movie business. In addition to being up to date in securing local films of the various attractive features given on special occasions, he has succeeded in booking the Hearst-Selig News Pictorial service for the second run in the state of Ohio. Cincinnati receives them first and Newark is next out, every other city in the state using the service getting them after they have been shown in this city.

It is not generally known but pictures are shown in the larger cities of Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo and Dayton days after they have been shown in Newark. It is no wonder that Manager Thomas has been congratulated by his fellow managers in the picture business. This city gives picture patrons the best service procurable.

A Day Will Come.

A day will come when the only battlefield will be the market open to commerce and the mind opening to new ideas. A day will come when bullets and bombshells will be replaced by votes, by the universal suffrage of nations, by the venerable arbitration of a great sovereign senate, which will be to Europe what the parliament is to England, what the diet is to Germany, what the legislative assembly is to France. A day will come when a cannon will be exhibited in public museums, just as an instrument of torture is now, and people will be astonished how such a thing could have been. A day will come when these two immense groups, the United States of America and the United States of Europe, shall be seen placed in presence of each other, extending the hand of fellowship across the ocean.—Victor Hugo.

The Master's Voice.

"We have come," said the chairman of the committee, "to ask you to take this nomination. The city needs a man like you—strong, brave, self made, self reliant, owning no master, fearing no man."

The great man was visibly touched.

"I'll not deny," said he, "that your kind words have shaken my resolution. I trust that, if elected, I may justify your confidence and prove that I am indeed strong, brave, self reliant, that I own no master and fear no man. Suppose you wait a minute till I see if my wife will let me accept?"—New York Times.

INSPECTION OF HANOVER ROAD BY OFFICIALS

The Board of County Commissioners Friday afternoon completed its final inspection of the Hanover pike. A part of this road has been completed and open to traffic for two years. Should the board place its stamp of approval on the road in its entirety the contractors, Messrs. Arthur & West of Circleville, O., will be paid the final estimate of 15 per cent. The Hanover road is considered one of the best in the state and daily traffic over that highway is very heavy at all times of the year.

The Potato Habit.

Potato eating has become a habit not because potatoes contain enough nourishment to carry on life, but because they are cheap, easy to prepare and bulky enough to fill up the stomach. The potato consists almost entirely of starch, and though this has a place in the diet it is not capable of building up strength and muscle. Constant reference is made to the hardihood of colonists and early settlers. They were not raised on a potato diet, for the potato was a luxury as late as 1800, to be served with sugar, nutmeg and mace. It is a product of more recent years, part and parcel of the struggle to keep down the living expense at the cost of the body.

This does not mean that potatoes should be eliminated from the dietary, for like every other food they have a definite mission to fulfill, but they must be used with discretion and in proper combination. Excessive use brings an inevitable trail of anaemia, obesity and autointoxication.—Country Gentleman.

Antics of Volcanoes.

Some curious antics are performed by volcanoes in action. On the island of Savii, in the Samoan group of the south Pacific, a fissure opened late one day in a cocoa plantation. An eruption took place immediately, devastating the whole island. After an eruption by Mount Taal in Luzon, Philippine Islands, five lakes, all of different colors, were left in the crater. Katmai, in Alaska, spread its volcanic dust around the world in less than a month. Mount Pelee thrust a rock plug through its crater nearly 2,000 feet high in a few days. The plug has since sealed until only the stump is left. Bandaisan, in Japan, blew its own head off and then belched streams of hot mud. When the island of Krakatoa, near Sumatra, was destroyed by volcanic schock the report of the explosion was heard 2,000 miles away. Cotopaxi, in Mexico, once broke loose so suddenly that the snow on its summit was scattered over the surrounding country as blocks of ice.—Kansas City Times.

Prof. Budlong Praises Rheuma

Suffered for Years with Rheumatism and Kidney Diseases.

"I Believe Your Remedy to be the Best in the World."

Prof. C. J. Budlong of Sound View, Conn., does not hesitate to endorse Rheuma, the old standard remedy for rheumatism which is convincing thousands of persons every year that the disease can be cured. Read his letter:

"For many years I was troubled with rheumatism and also with Bright's disease of the kidneys. I suffered most awfully. I tried all the advertised remedies. At last I used your truly remarkable preparation, Rheuma. I can only say that I believe your remedy to be the best in the world. It surely cured me. Refer to me. All letters gladly answered."

Rheuma does not simply remedy defects in your shattered system—it permanently removes the cause—gets into the blood and purifies it, allowing the poisonous uric acid to pass off through the kidneys, bowels and skin.

Rheuma costs only 50 cents of T. J. Evans and other druggists.
